SCORE Gets City 14-Day Ultimatum

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

The city of Kingston has scuttled SCORE, giving the self-help project which aimed to rehabilitate three buildings on West Street exactly 14 working days to bring its dilapidated properties up to code standards.

And it all comes as something of a surprise as conditions on SCORE's three buildings haven't changed measurably for the last 18 months. There were no meetings between SCORE and city officials preceding the city's weekend ultimatum.

"I can make some of the repairs but it's impossible to do the whole job," said Ronald Robinson, president of SCORE (Strand Community Organization to Rehabilitate the Environment). "We'll do what we can in 14 days but we have no intention of giving up."

Robinson said the city's ultimatum, written Aug. 30 by Building Inspector George E. Radcliffe and delivered to Robinson by registered letter the next day, "came as a complete surprise. There was no warning."

Mayor Francis R. Koenig, on the other hand, allows that there may have been no "warning" as such but that Robinson should have been aware that the city would not allow the on-going situation on West Strand to continue.

SCORE started negotiations to purchase the three buildings it owns in the summer of 1972 from the city which had acquired them for taxes. SCORE took title in May of last year.

Since then SCORE has succeeded in cleaning out some of the debris, although critics contend much debris remains and some of the "cleaned up" debris wound up in the rear courtyard, but the buildings themselves, open to the elements, have gone rapidly downhill. One building has a collapsed roof and another has one about to collapse. Windows are broken, doors are non-existent and the whole picture is one of general neglect.

"They've had it a year and a half," Mayor Koenig said. "They were going to fix it up and nothing's been done. There are safety violations in the buildings and this is the reason it's (the notification) is being done."

SCORE did not have a great deal of money to work on the buildings to start with, using $1,400 of a $2,000 grant from IBM to purchase the buildings, and the rest for tools for cleanup which Robinson says were reportedly stolen.

Since SCORE came in as a non-profit organization on the Strand, two private developers have come in. Robert Johnson plans a restaurant on one side of SCORE while Frank Simpson Jr. plans a boutique. Johnson first and then Simpson, complained of inactivity on the part of SCORE. And the resultant unsafe condition of the buildings.

Koenig allowed that there were complaints from the neighborhood although he did not identify the source.

"What really upsets me is when the city held the buildings it didn't do anything about the conditions either," says Robinson. Koenig answers that by stating the city does not usually rehabilitate the buildings it takes for taxes. "We usually tear them down. Nine times out of ten they can't be rehabed," Koenig said.

Robinson credits SCORE with leading the fight to get the block designated as a city and national historic site and says that he has assurances of a $5,000 matching grant from the state for building repairs. SCORE has to come up with $5,000 however, something it hasn't been able to do all summer.

"I don't know what recourse

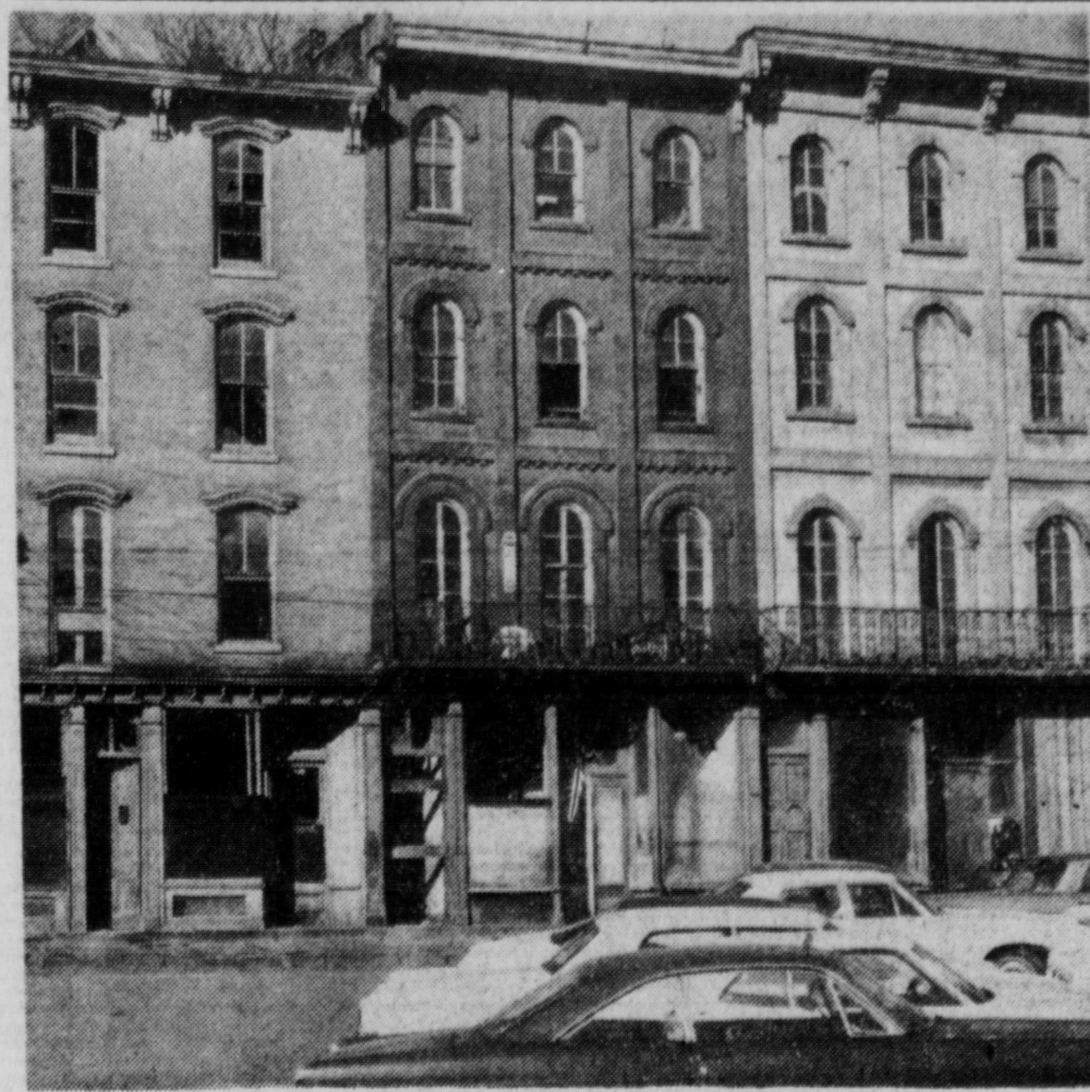

I have," Robinson said. "I guess we'll have to fight or fold."

"If they force us to sell our buildings we'll have to go out and find someone to do with our buildings what we planned," Robinson said. SCORE had planned to rehabilitate the buildings into living quarters and shops.

Back on Aug. 11, Ulster County Community College announced that it was planning an extension program with SCORE in one of the buildings adjacent to SCORE's buildings.

Robinson, as he has on other occasions, suggested a sort of conspiracy against his program. "I think there are certain private interests that want our buildings and we do not want a few people to profit at the expense of many."

The city has given SCORE until Sept. 20 to bring its buildings up to code standards, by all accounts, an impossibility. Building Inspector Radcliffe didn't seem surprised at what might be the last stand for SCORE. "When the city sells something that's not fit to be used to someone who doesn't have the money to fix it up, you can draw your own conclusions on the outcome," he said.

Busbee Gains Dem Primary Nod

Maddox Loses in Georgia

By United Press International

Georgia Democratic voters overwhelmingly rejected the comeback bid of former Gov. Lester Maddox, but two other retired state chief executives returned to the political wars in Nevada and North Dakota Tuesday.

Maddox lost to George Busbee, Democratic leader of the Georgia House of Representatives, a veteran legislator who engineered Maddox's rise to state political power eight years ago, walloped the flamboyant lieutenant governor by a margin of almost two to one.

Former Govs. William Guy of North Dakota, a Democrat, and Paul Laxalt of Nevada, a Republican, won their party's senatorial nominations after both returned to politics from private life.

Nevada Republicans also nominated Mrs. Shirley Crumpler to challenge Democratic Gov. Mike O'Callaghan, but Democrat Maya Miller was defeated for the Democratic senatorial nomination. A brother-in-law, Beverly Harrell, also led a field of candidates for a Nevada state legislative seat.

The tightest race in the three primaries was the Georgia Republican contest for governor. Macon Mayor Ronnie Thompson, a law-and-order hardliner held a razor thin lead over political newcomer Harold Dye of Atlanta as vote counting went into final stages.

Maddox, a fried chicken merchant who vaulted to the governorship in 1966 after making headlines for his fiery opposition to desegregating his clientele, had been warming the lieutenant governor's seat since 1970.

Democrat Jimmy Carter now holds the seat but cannot run for re-election.

Maddox led a large field of candidates in the Aug. 13 primary — winning 35 per cent of the vote to 22 for Busbee. But Busbee, Democratic leader in the Georgia House, crushed the Maddox comeback by casting himself as a reliable "workhorse" who could do a better job than a flamboyant "showhorse."

Rep. Hugh Carey answers charges by primary opponent Howard Samuels. Story on page 3.

Maddox had softened his hard line on racial matters in recent years, but at the end of the runoff campaign he claimed Busbee was an ally of Julian Bond, the black Georgia legislator who in 1967 was denied a seat in the House because of antiwar statements.

Actually, Busbee had voted to deny Bond his seat, which was restored by court action.

There also was a political oddity in North Dakota, where long terms so seniority will make up for their few votes. Guy won the Democratic senatorial nomination in a primary contest with Robert McCarney.

McCarney, then a Republican, lost to Guy in the 1968 governorship election and switched parties in 1971. Guy now must run against Republican Sen. Milton Young, who has held his seat since 1945 and was unopposed for renomination.

The third former governor, Laxalt, was an easy victor in his quest for Nevada's GOP senatorial nomination for a seat now held by retiring Democratic Sen. Alan Bible, who has held the seat for 20 years.

Nevada voters tend to keep their two senators and congressman in Washington for contest with three men.

Ellenville 'Fee' Battle Heats Up

By WADE BURKHART

ELLENVILLE
Ellenville Democratic Trustee David Kramer has charged, in a recent press conference and subsequent press release, that former Village Attorney Albert L. Lonstein was "improperly paid" fees totalling more than three times the previous high for a village attorney.

Lonstein told the Freeman Tuesday that the reason he got paid more than previous village attorneys was because he had been required to do more work than previous village attorneys.

According to Kramer's research, before Lonstein's tenure the previous high for attorney's fees for a year was $6,704, during the year when there was a scandal in the Ellenville Police Department which required a lot of work on the part of the village attorney; during other years, according to Kramer, fees ran between $3,300 and $5,300.

Kramer stated that Lonstein's fees during his last year in office were $9,313, and that after he left office he submitted bills totaling $12,124 for village work, and $5,709 for urban renewal work. Lonstein left office last April, following the Democratic sweep in the village elections in March. The Democrats appointed Alex J. Nirenberg to replace Lonstein.

Kramer said that Mayor Robert Dowling's signature was already on the bills when they were presented to the board for payment, and that Democratic Trustees Bernard Wainer and Stanley Kaplan signed the bills after initially refusing to do so. Wainer declined to comment on Kramer's statement, or his sign-off of the bills. Kaplan was unavailable for comment.

In his statement, Kramer said Democratic Town Chairman Jere Turkfeld had requested that Kramer sign Lonstein's bills — something Kramer did not do, and has not done — so that Lonstein could loan Turkfeld $1,500. Turkfeld said Tuesday, "I never pressured him for anything."

Lonstein said he had offered Turkfeld a loan after Turkfeld requested one, something he said he had done for Turkfeld as a friend, before, but had said that the village was holding up what money he had to lend. "What difference does it make?" asked Lonstein. "It's my money." Lonstein said he charged the village $45 a hour for his work, which he said was low, and that post, something Kramer has he had given the village a break on the bills he had submitted. Wainer has denied this.

He said the reason he submitted additional bills after he left office was because he only said of the village attorney's submitted bills on projects after they were completed, and his village work was completed as far as he was concerned after he left office.

Citing a number of legal projects, including several condemnations, the new village codes, and the Salesian Society suit, Lonstein said he had also done a lot of "leg work" for the village in a number of matters. "I didn't just sit in an office and tell them to come in," he said.

Kramer said Lonstein's fees explained the "shenanigans" behind a Lonstein attempt to regain the village attorney's post, something Kramer has charged Wainer was involved.

Lonstein, in a statement released in answer to Kramer's, said of the village attorney's position, "It is my intention neither to seek nor accept the position."

Kramer said Lonstein's fees had wiped out the contingency fund in the village budget, and projects, including several condemnations, the new village codes, and the Salesian Society suit, Lonstein said he had also done a lot of "leg work" for the village in a number of matters. "I didn't just sit in an office and tell them to come in," he said.

Kramer said Lonstein's fees explained the "shenanigans" behind a Lonstein attempt to sue Kramer for defamation.

Headed U. S. Forces in Vietnam

Gen. Abrams Dies, Was Chief of Staff

GEN. ABRAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Chief of Staff Creighton W. Abrams, the general who took command of U.S. forces in Vietnam at a time of crisis in 1968 and oversaw the policy reversal that led to American withdrawal, died early today.

Abrams, who first won fame as a tough tank commander in World War II, would have been 60 on Sept. 15.

The Army announced that he died at 12:35 a.m. EDT at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. Mrs. Abrams and his six children, including two Army officers, were at his bedside.

His death resulted from "complications that developed during recovery from surgical removal of his cancerous lung" on June 6, the Army said.

Secretary of the Army Howard M. Callaway issued a statement saying that "the Army and the country have lost one of the great men... of modern times."

Callaway said Abrams "pointed the way for the Army in years to come."

Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery, the Army said.

Of all the top American officials in Vietnam during the dozen years of that complex war, perhaps none was as realistic, pragmatic and forthright as Abrams. Few emerged with their reputations less scarred.

When Abrams assumed command of U.S. forces in Vietnam on July 3, 1968, there were 543,000 Americans in the country. Communist side's devastating Tet offensive. South Vietnam's political system was in crisis in the countryside, its military forces were reeling from severe casualties, and President Lyndon B. Johnson had announced he would not run again because of divisiveness in the United States over his war policies.

When Abrams left, five years later, American forces had preceded him.

It was a different kind of assignment — and certainly the toughest ever — for the rumpled general whose public reputation had been built largely on battlefield heroics.

He had been the tank officer who relieved beleaguered American paratroopers at Bastogne in the 1944 Battle of the Bulge and won Gen. George S. Patton's accolade as "the best tank commander in the Army."

Abrams became chief of staff of the Army on Oct. 16, 1972.

On May 28 of this year, the Army announced that Abrams had entered Walter Reed Army Medical Center with a "mild form of pneumonia," and three days later disclosed that he had lung cancer. His left lung was removed July 6.

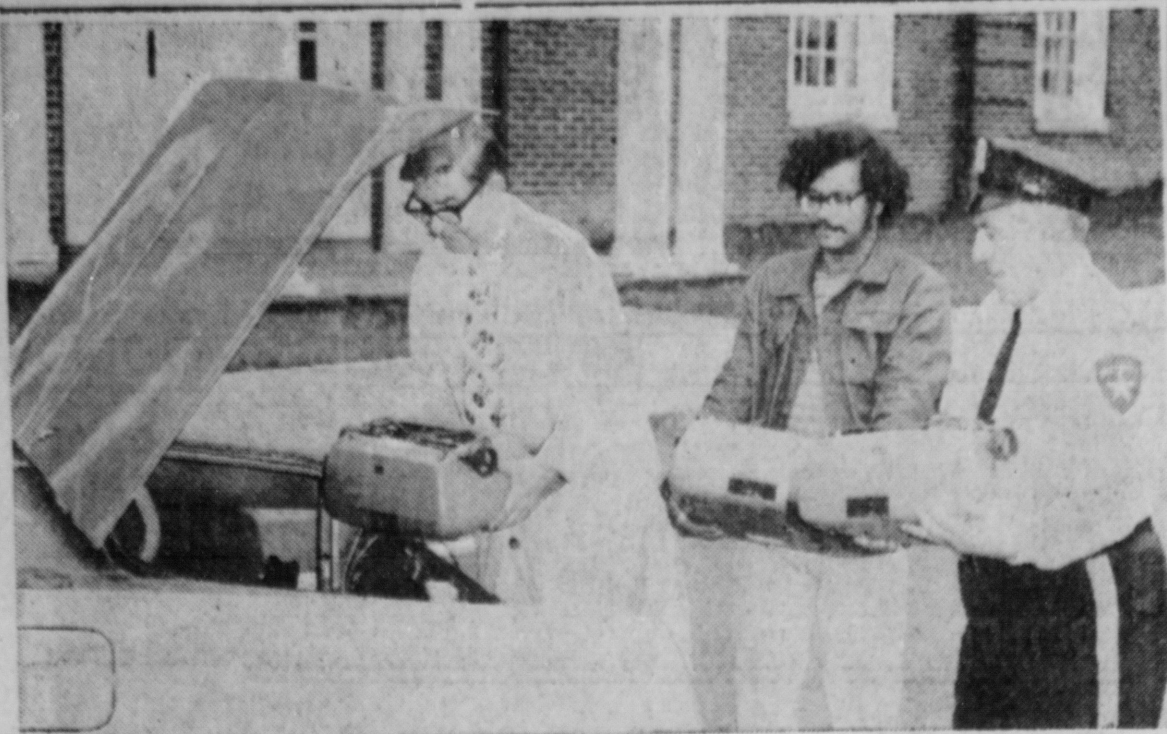

Released from the hospital, he returned to the Pentagon on July 25. But Abrams was back at Walter Reed on Aug. 21 with what was described as a blood clot in the leg.

Rains Wrack Westchester; Motorists Take to Roofs

By United Press International
Severe thunderstorms Tuesday night and early today knocked out electrical service for some 180,000 Westchester County residents, caused scattered power outages elsewhere in the metropolitan area and forced motorists on two Westchester parkways to abandon their cars as flood waters rose to five and six feet in some low spots.

A spokesman for the Westchester Parkway police at Hawthorne said officers, using a rowboat, a 20-foot whaling boat and a "big rescue truck" plucked at least 50 persons from the roofs of cars stranded on parts of the Bronx River and Hutchinson River parkways. Several persons were treated and released for exposure at area hospitals, he said.

Meanwhile, parkway police dove underneath the stranded autos to hook up tow lines and remove the vehicles from the roadway. Stretches of the Bronx River and Hutchinson River parkways in Harrison, White Plains, Mount Vernon, Scarsdale and Yonkers were closed to traffic due to flooding. In Pleasantville, a Consolidated Edison power substation was struck by lightning around 6 p.m., causing power failures for an estimated 63,000 residents. Power was restored to all Pleasantville customers shortly after 9 p.m., a Con Ed spokesman said.

The spokesman said that mainly due to downed power lines, 120,000 Westchester residents in Mount Vernon, Mamaroneck, Mount Kisco and Millwood were without power Tuesday night. But, by this morning, the spokesman said, most of them had power restored and only 4,500 customers — about 13,000 residents — remained without electricity, mainly in Mamaroneck, New Rochelle and Rye.

Con Edison also reported scattered outages in Queens and Brooklyn due to the storm. There was also some flooding of subway stations in the Bronx and on the upper West Side of Manhattan.

The National Weather service said 2.94 inches of rain fell on New York City from late afternoon through 1 a.m. Nearly an inch came down in a single 15-minute onslaught — from 7 to 7:15 p.m.

Legislature Debate

KINGSTON Debate on the merits of the proposal to extend the terms of Ulster County legislators from two to four years will be held tonight at the annual meeting of the "We've Had It Taxpayers Association."

The meeting will be held at 7:30 at the George Washington School, Wall Street.

Those speaking for the proposal which will be put to a referendum next Tuesday, Primary Day, include legislators Louis Klein (D-Dist.

6), Louis Resnick (D-Dist. 7) and Brian R. White (R-Dist. 8).

Those planning to speak in opposition include legislators Lester C. Elmendorf (R-Dist. 2) and Stephen G. Hyatt (R-Dist. 2) and local radio executive Harry M. Thayer.

WHITA has already gone on record as being opposed to the four-year term.

Election of members of the board of directors will take place and WHITA's annual membership drive will be conducted.

21-Year-Old Man Sought

Search for Suspect in Woodstock Slaying

KINGSTON State Police today sent out a nationwide alert for 21-year-old Nicholas Malanos, wanted in the death of Peter G. Cawley, 30, of Woodstock, whose battered, lifeless body was found Monday in his Tinker Street apartment.

Cawley's death was first termed "suspicious" by authorities, but subsequent to an autopsy Tuesday, Coroner Richard Buono ruled that his death was a result of injuries inflicted in a severe beating.

Police said Malanos, who had been staying at Cawley's apartment, is wanted for first degree manslaughter. Malanos described as a white male, five feet, 11 inches tall, weighing 200 pounds and having dark brown hair, was reportedly last seen Tuesday in Kingston, state police said.

It had been previously revealed that Cawley and his then unidentified roommate became embroiled in an argument early Saturday morning.

BCI investigators said today that they now believe Cawley died early Saturday. His body was not discovered until Monday afternoon on the floor of his apartment at 114 Tinker Street.

Authorities said Tuesday, while still awaiting a ruling on the cause of death, that Cawley had apparently been beaten with a camera tripod. He suffered multiple injuries which resulted in death, according to Coroner Buono.

Neighbors heard the argument early Saturday, but no one called police, authorities said. Cawley's body was found Monday when a friend reportedly looked in through a window of the apartment.

State police sought Malanos on Tuesday for questioning, but he eluded them.

Police asked anyone with information about the whereabouts of Malanos to contact Hurley State Police. The suspect is formerly of Pennsylvania, authorities said.

Carey Answers Samuels' Finance Charges

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Hugh Carey reported early today that his gubernatorial campaign organization had repaid most of the loans made to it by his brother since June 1.

Carey thus moved both to avoid a possible conflict with the new state campaign finance law — which would have required the repayments by primary day next Tuesday — and to defuse what has become an increasingly acrimonious debate over the propriety of his brother's aid.

That debate, however, continued Tuesday, and it was hardly diminished by Carey's reaffirmation of a pledge he had made earlier to support Howard Samuels, his opponent in the primary, should Samuels win the Democratic nomination.

Samuels has charged repeatedly that the substantial aid given to Carey by his brother, Edward, president of the New England Petroleum Corp., tied his opponent too closely to the oil industry.

And he reinforced that charge Tuesday with a new allegation that NEPCO and the Long Island Lighting Co. had combined in 1971 to let the price of LILCO's fuel oil go higher than a contract between the two companies should have allowed.

Samuels said the state Public Service Commission had not acted to keep the higher fuel costs from being passed on to consumers. He said that kind of "cozy relationship" between government, the oil industry and utilities would not exist in a Samuels administration; by implication, his staffers ac-knowledgeed, he was charging that it might exist in a Carey administration.

Carey reported today that as of Tuesday his campaign had repaid $252,500 of the $347,500 in loans his brother had made since June 1, the date the new campaign finance law took effect.

That law limited the amount a candidate and his family could spend on a statewide primary to $105,000; the repayments thus exceeded the legal requirement by $10,000.

Jerry Cummins, Carey's campaign manager, said the repayment should end Samuels' "one attempt to discredit Carey." He called on Samuels to stop talking about the Carey contributions and to "return his contributions from landlords who profited from leases" for off-track betting parlors during the years Samuels headed New York City's OTB Corp.

The repayments seemed unlikely to end the controversy over the Carey finances, however. Carey had received about $800,000 in loans and loan guarantees from his brother before the new law went into effect on June 1, and Samuels aides indicated they would continue to make an issue of those funds.

Samuels filed a report early today saying his campaign organization had received $1.4 million in contributions and spent $1.64 million from May 1973 through Aug. 31. The difference between the two sums, a spokesman said, is covered by "accounts receivable" for such items as telephone bills.

Similar reports were to be mailed by Carey and other candidates for statewide office to the state Board of Elections by 12:01 a.m., but figures from them were not immediately available.

Carey issued a statement Tuesday reaffirming an earlier vow that he would support the winner of the primary.

His action came after some criticism by party leaders and others of remarks he made on Monday, when he warned that he might not support Samuels unless he stopped what Carey called his "personal, vindictive and vicious attacks" on himself and his brother. Tuesday's statement said that remark was merely "cautionary."

Firebombing, Looting Continue in Newark

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Disorders marked by firebombing and looting broke out in the state's largest city for the third straight day Tuesday, resulting in injuries to a dozen policemen and five civilians.

Relative calm returned about midnight.

About 15 stores, including a five-and-dime and a small department store, were looted as hit-and-run bands of youths, most of them Puerto Rican, rampaged through the predominantly white North Ward.

At one time, a squad of eight policemen investigating a report of looting at a liquor store came under sniper fire, police said. Six shots were fired but none of the officers was hit. They withdrew without returning the fire.

The disorders erupted Sunday afternoon after police broke up a dice game at a Puerto Rican picnic in Branch Brook Park. Two persons were shot and two police cars and a motorcycle were burned and other vehicles damaged.

On Monday, about 1,000 demonstrators, mostly Puerto Rican, marched on City Hall and police cleared the streets. Sporadic looting and fires, including two at supermarkets and one at a church rectory, continued until well after midnight.

Trouble flared Tuesday a few hours after Mayor Kenneth A. Gibson imposed a ban on street demonstrations. Six small stores in the area of Columbus Homes, a city-owned low-income project that has been the focal point of disorders, were looted. The project's residents are mainly Puerto Rican.

As darkness fell, roving bands of youths took to the streets and there was looting in a 12-block square area.

Police Director Hubert Williams said 31 persons, most of them Puerto Rican, were arrested Tuesday on an assortment of charges, including breaking and entering and possession of stolen goods.

About 45 persons were arrested and 37 injured in the two previous days of disorders.

A spokesman for Williams when most of the 12 injured policemen had been hit by objects, many thrown from Columbus Homes. He said none was injured seriously.

The disorders continued throughout Tuesday night despite a heavy rain. Police in the Columbus Homes area said the rain helped douse some of the Molotov cocktails hurled from the projects. No serious fires were reported Tuesday.

Scores of cars passing the project were pelted with rocks and bottles.

The city's 400,000 residents include about 50,000 Puerto Ricans.

A few hours after Gibson announced his ban on street demonstrations, police in the North Ward said firebombings and looting had flared anew.

A number of stores in the area of Columbus Homes were looted, police said.

In his statement, the mayor said his primary goal in imposing the ban was to protect the city's residents.

"Any attempts to picket, carry signs, gather or congregate in any form of protest will result in immediate arrest," declared Gibson, the city's first black mayor.

Gibson said any group of three or more persons would be subject to his order. No one was arrested under the mayor's edict on Tuesday, officials said.

Seated in his second-floor office, looking up at his shattered window, Gibson declared, "There's not going to be any more nonsense from now on."

'Don't Sequester Jury'... Mitchell

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Any jury chosen for the Watergate cover-up trial would be prejudiced enough against the six defendants and thus should not be sequestered, argues former Attorney General John N. Mitchell.

He asked U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica Tuesday to rescind his order that jurors be locked up between sessions of the trial, scheduled to begin Sept. 30. It may last as long as three months.

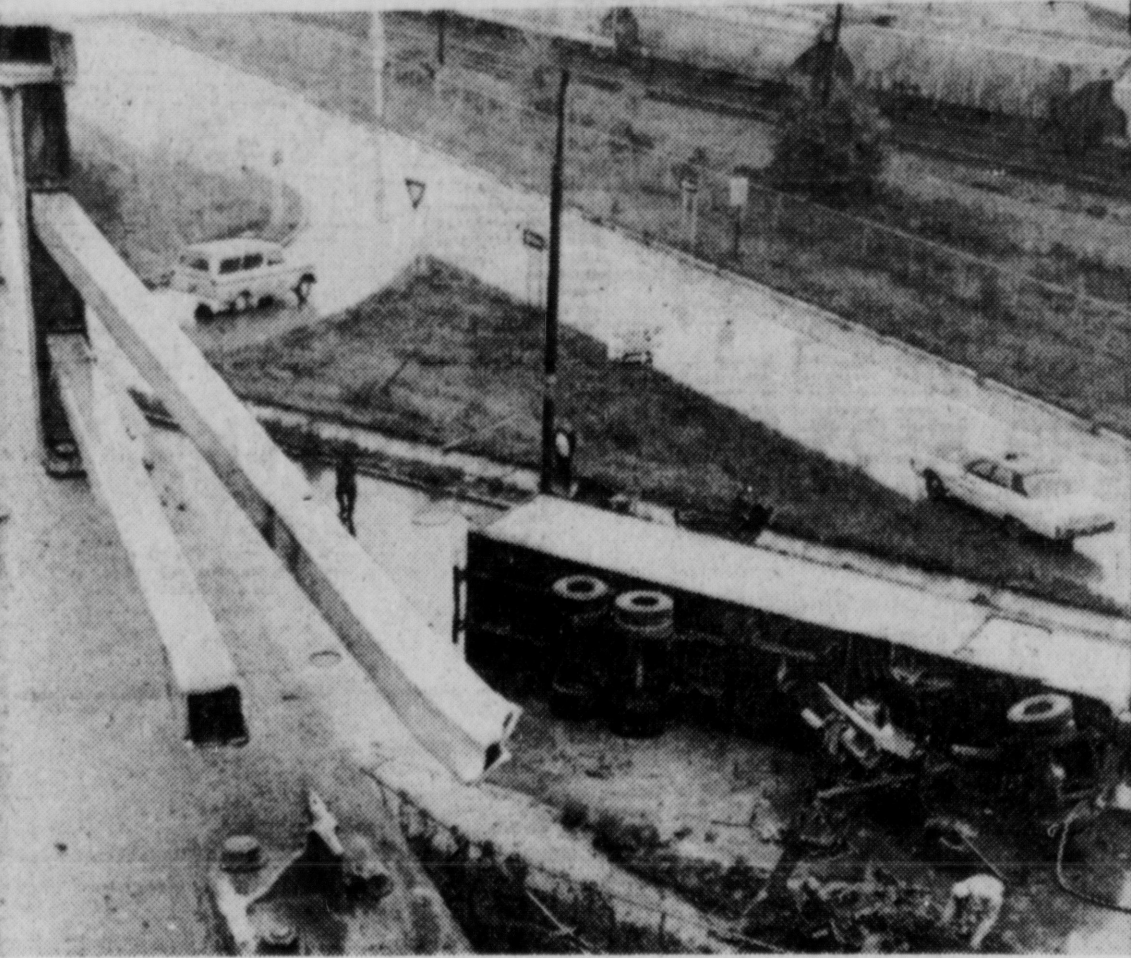

The jurors would be guarded by federal marshals and prevented from reading or hearing about the trial.

In a brief motion, Mitchell also said he would not make any more complaints about all jurors except those who could be separated from their jobs and families for three months denies him a "totally representative" jury, and the prospect the trial may not be over by Christmas poses "an unfair and unnecessary burden" on the jurors.

The other defendants are former White House or re-election campaign aides H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman, Gordon C. Strachan, Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth Parkinson.

CLOSE CALL — A truck driven by Timothy Jacques, 25, of Albany crashed through guardrails (upper left) and plunged to another road 100 feet below. The accident occurred on route 287 close to the Hudson River in Albany. The truck landed on Pearl Street, one of the city's busiest, but no one other than Jacques was injured. He is listed in critical condition. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

EYE INJURY—A frequent occurrence in accident cases, eye injuries are now being diagnosed and treated at Kingston Hospital emergency room with the aid of a new Mentor Slit Lamp bio-microscope. Offering 7.5, 10 and up to 15 times magnification with a coordinated light source, the device is used in examining the anterior third of the eye, including pupil, cornea and lids, and can enable the physician to determine whether a red eye is caused by injury, infection, allergy, or glaucoma. It is an invaluable aid to the doctor in removal of imbedded foreign objects. Besides its emergency room use, it is also available for doctors for use with in-patients at the hospital. Dr. Kobkier Chukiert, right, emergency room physician, demonstrates the new slit lamp to Michael Dubill, emergency room technician, who is positioned as a patient would be. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

'Intermediate' Companies

Phone Weaknesses Listed

ALBANY If you live in Red Hook, Rhinebeck, Highland, Monroe or Walden and you think your telephone service is not up to par, you are in agreement with the New York State Public Service Commission.

A PSC staff report summarizing the quality of service provided during the second quarter of 1974 by four "intermediate" telephone companies points to weaknesses in Highland Telephone Company, and the Red Hook-Rhinebeck center operated by Continental Telephone.

Others cited for lack of quality in service were Mid-Continent companies in Jamestown, Red Jacket, and Midstate; General Telephone Company of Upstate New York, Inc.; and other Continental companies in Iroquois Southern Counties, western Counties, Chenango and Unadilla and Farmers Union.

The summary, based on monthly reports filed by the companies, shows the average performance for each quarter for each service center, encompassing a number of exchanges.

Staff reporting showed that only one service center out of 17 reporting showed weakspot performance in customer trouble reports and 14 also had weakspot performance in coin telephone trouble reports.

Only Continental's Rhinebeck plant service center experienced quarterly results poorer than the weakspot level of eight customer trouble reports per 100 telephones per month. This is the third time in the past five quarters that the center recorded poor quarterly maintenance results.

The Rhinebeck center serves Rhinebeck, Red Hook, Elizaville, Tivoli, and Staatsburg exchanges. Highland, General Telephone and Continental Telephone continue to experience difficulty with repeated reports at all plant service centers. "Repeated" means that a certain per centage of total customer trouble reports are reported for the second time in 30 days.

Of the 14 centers experiencing difficulty, five improved, four deteriorated, and five remained about the same when compared to the second quarter of 1973.

The four locations with deteriorated trends were Highland's Monroe and Walden centers and Continental's Rhinebeck and Cato centers.

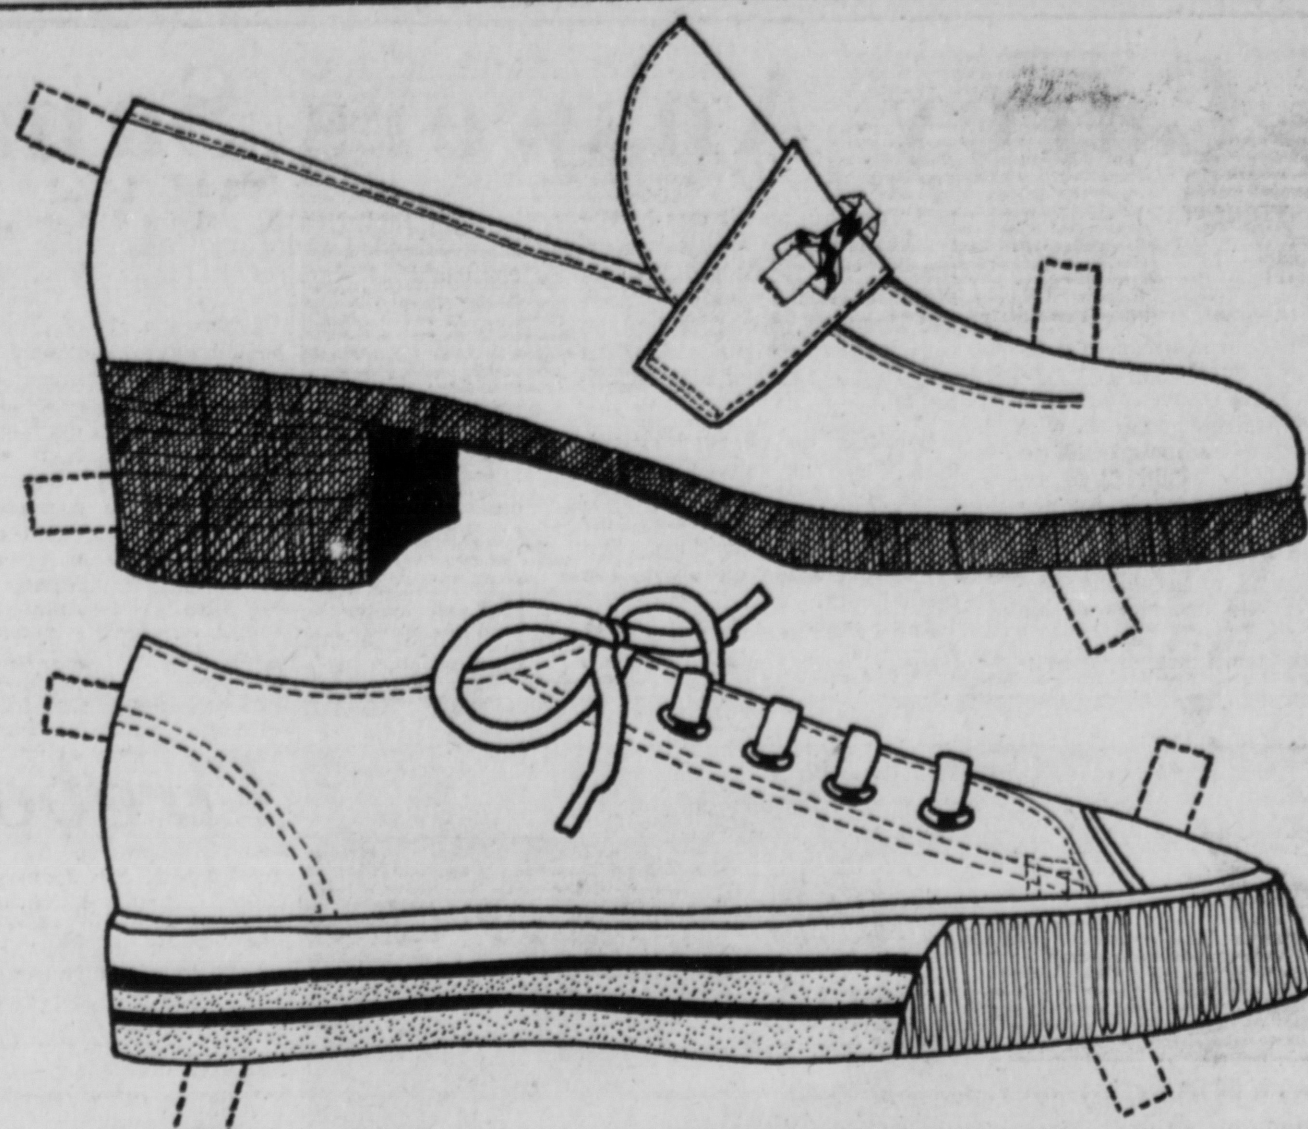

All centers but three in the four companies experienced high coin telephone performance, at least 20 trouble reports per 100 telephones.

The report notes, however, that overall, each company has had an improving trend compared to the second quarter of 1973.

Figures for Rhinebeck, with 11,202 total stations and 131 coin stations, showed the high customer trouble report of 8.1 reports per 100 stations.

In Rhinebeck, however, almost 96 per cent of the troubles reported were cleared within 24 hours, the best per centage in the study, and 99 per cent of installation orders are completed within five days, one of the best records in that department.

House OK's GI Benefits

WASHINGTON, D.C. The House of Representatives has passed legislation providing a 22.7 per cent increase in education benefits for veterans.

The veteran's benefit legislation also provided an 18 per cent increase in vocational benefits but the House dropped provisions for a tuition supplement plan and a nine month extension of the time period allowed for full time college enrollment for veterans.

Said Rep. Benjamin A. Gilman (26th District), "While I am disappointed that these two key provisions were dropped, and I supported both of them, the large increases in benefits provided by this bill should be extremely helpful in enabling our veterans to pursue their higher education."

The House acted on a conference report that must still be approved by the Senate.

Initially, Congressman Gilman noted, the House had approved a 13 per cent increase in educational benefits, but the Senate raised this figure and the joint House-Senate Conference Committee agreed on the 22.7 per cent increase.

Cook-Guard Defends Department

Says Jail Personnel 'Doing the Job'

KINGSTON — Ulster County Jail personnel have done their duty in protecting the county from dangerous persons and in protecting inmates from each other, according to Gerard P. Beggi, a cook-guard with the Ulster County Sheriff's Department.

"I am a cook at the Ulster County Jail. Due to constant contact with kitchen trustees and the entire inmate population, I am also a deputy, paid $2.90 an hour regardless of the date time or number of hours worked," Beggi said in a press release, adding his purpose is not to complain about his salary, but is "to give an opinion and perhaps some information."

"People in my age group (24) were brought up by parents, unwilling to see their children suffer lack of education, creative comforts or international strife. We grew up to the sounds of '... ask what you can do for your country' and the great society. We became adults during the longest war in American history and all the domestic unrest that stemmed from it. Some of us fled from the pressures challenging us, while others accepted the burdens a modern democracy places on its citizens," the deputy said.

"It hurts to see men," he continued, "with families waiting and proven abilities, locked in cells, but the pain inflicted by their crimes on our society is such that it cannot be allowed to be repeated at will. The job of the County Jail is to hold these men in a safe and sane environment until the courts decide them to be innocent or guilty..."

"We at the jail do not judge these men; that is the job of the courts and peers and juries. Our task is not to mistreat these men for by breaking laws and rules we too become criminals. Our only function on Golden Hill is to ensure the health and well-being of those convicted of crimes and those awaiting trial."

Beggi continued: "In this callous age it may seem naive, but our personnel do care about the treatment these men receive. We too are men, members of your communities, no more sadistic, no more foolish, no more ineffectual than those we serve."

"If at times (seemingly more numerous in an election year) the news from the jail seems to condemn our work, I would like to remind those who know and inform those who do not, that alleged abuses, alleged negligence are always a very small percentage of any system, even if and when proven."

"Have you ever made a mistake on the job, a lapse of set policy and had your career weighed because of it? Should judgment be made of dedicated men and women because of a supposed breach of rules?"

"The public has not heard of the daily work of the jail, of the drugged and hostile teenager brought to us in the small hours of the morning, of the inmates stopped from doing themselves bodily harm by guards at their own risk, of potential disturbances defused by deputies working within the framework of regulations and using common sense, of the off-duty activities of jail personnel trying to aid released inmates in a society which professes shock over correctional conditions, but which turns away from any true assistance to men who find no hope once branded as 'criminals' regardless of time served or court orders."

"We at the jail have been given the job of protecting the county from men deemed dangerous by the courts, yet our job also includes protecting inmates from each other and, in some cases, from themselves. From the hue and cry it would seem we have failed when in fact I feel we have not."

Beggi concluded: "I write this letter as a concerned citizen who wanted to speak to a larger audience than family and friends. If they wish, the people of Ulster County can have my $6,200 a year job tomorrow. I've had better offers. But the work is a challenge I like, and I can say, along with most of my fellow workers, that I'm not in it for the money."

Applicants Sought For 15 New City Jobs

KINGSTON — The City of Kingston is seeking applicants for some $100,000 worth of jobs under the federal manpower development program.

Job titles range from clerk at city hall for $100 a week to planning technician in the city planner's office at $184 per week.

Most of the 15 jobs available (10) are in the public works department with eight openings for Laborer-2 at $124 per week, one opening for Laborer-1 at $130 per week and one opening for motor equipment operator at $138 per week.

In addition to the planning technician and the clerk positions, there are also two openings for laborers in the recreation department at $109 per week and an opening for engineering aide at $138 per week.

There are number of restrictions in the form of priorities. Top priority will be given to Vietnam veterans, Welfare recipients are next on the priority (preference) list followed by former manpower enrollees, members of minority groups, older workers (above the age of 45) and ex-criminals and ex-drug addicts. All applicants must be city residents at the time of application and must have been unemployed for 30 days previous.

The program, authorized under Title II of the Comprehensive Training and Employment Act of 1973 was approved by the Common Council on June 4 of this year and signed into law by Mayor Francis R.

Koenig on June 7. Administered by Ulster County Temporary Manpower Training Council, the program is intended to aid "disadvantaged, unemployed and underemployed" persons.

The program is designed for "one-year transitional employment" although many persons have gained permanent employment through the program that started three years ago as a temporary attempt to combat the area's high unemployment rate.

Information and applications are available through the city planner's office at city hall, Meadow Street. Applicants are being asked to appear in person. The planner's office will determine eligibility and then arrange interviews with appropriate department heads.

Olive Board to Act On Butternut Knolls

SHOKAN on 36 acres off Turner Road in West Shokan, has aroused controversy in the town. A group of residents in the area, headed by Hugh Kelly, has gathered petitions calling for disapproval of the project, claiming that it is landlocked on three sides and has only minimal frontage on the fourth; that Turner Road is narrow and cannot handle additional traffic; that most homes in the area are on lots larger than one acre; and that the single entry and exit road would cause serious problems in case of fire, storms, or heavy snow.

The board released $7,000 being held as a performance bond to developer Frank S. Zorro after Highway Superintendent Marcel Maier approved Zorro's completion of Hillside Drive in West Shokan. Supervisor Oliver Crawford reported that the board had met with the head of Olive Cablevision, who hopes to begin installing lines in the West Shokan area in April, 1975. The cablevision firm has been waiting for the New York Telephone Company to install new utility poles on which its lines are carried.

Maier was authorized to prepare specifications and advertise for bids on a sander and a used grader with buckets for the Highway Department. Bid opening dates will be announced later.

Town Historian Vera Sickler announced that a bicentennial exhibit, including pictures of the town and of Ashokan Reservoir, will be on display at the West Shokan library from 1 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Oct. 4 and from noon until 8 p.m. on Oct. 5.

Crawford named Sept. 17 as "Citizenship Day" and the week of Sept. 17-23 as "Constitution Week" in the town, to correspond with national celebrations at the same time.

The board reappointed Reginald Davis of Olivebridge as dog enumerator for another two years and reappointed Bonnie Giacalone to another five-year term on the Board of Assessment Review.

Screenwriter Koch Critically Injured

OWEGO, N. Y. (UPI) — Howard Koch, 72, well-known Hollywood screen and radio writer, was listed in critical condition today in Robert Packer Hospital in Sayre, Pa., after being injured in a highway accident near this Southern Tier village.

Authorities said Koch was driving west on Route 17 Tuesday, bound for Ithaca, and was about 8 miles west of Owego when he apparently realized he had missed the Ithaca exit and pulled to the side of the highway. He then attempted to make a U-turn and a pickup truck hit his car broadside, they said.

Koch, whose home is in Woodstock, wrote the screen play for "Casablanca" and the radio script for Orson Welles' "War of the Worlds" in 1939.

He had been headed for Ithaca to make a campaign appearance for William Schechter, a Democratic candidate for Congress from the 27th District.

Dr. Nichols New Head of Campus School

NEW PALTZ

Dr. Lois K. Nichols, professor of education at the State University College at New Paltz, has been named acting principal of the Campus Learning Center. She succeeds Dr. Russell Abrams, who has been assigned new teaching and administrative duties within the Faculty of Education, according to Dean Mario D. Fantini.

Dr. Nichols came to New Paltz in 1960 as a member of the Campus School staff. In 1968 after 24 years of elementary school teaching, she became coordinator of early childhood programs at the college. For the past six years she has worked closely with the Campus Learning Center staff to develop optional learning environments for children and students in the teacher education program of the Department of Elementary Education.

Abrams will teach graduate students this year in the emerging field of educational technology and will implement a federal grant for the establishment of an auto-tutorial laboratory in which undergraduate education majors will learn to use new media devices available in the schools.

He also will assume some of the Faculty of Education's public information functions held by Dr. Raymond Kenyon, who is on leave.

Dr. Abrams, who also received his doctorate at Albany, has been at New Paltz since 1963 when he started as an industrial arts teacher in the Campus School. He is the founding president of the Mid-Hudson Educational Communications Association.

Worrisome Situation

While world attention has focused on Cyprus, potentially far more serious trouble has been brewing not far away in the Middle East. The cease-fire heralded with such a mighty trumpeting only a short time ago appears more and more fragile as the opposing sides make warlike preparations.

The Egyptian military machine is reportedly being maintained at almost wartime strength, and spending continues at the level of 1972-73 when war was in the offing. Why? Because, said Egypt's Finance Minister Mohamed Abdel Fattah recently, "the battle is still on."

On the other side of the line we find Israel pulling off a surprise reserve callup. This testing of readiness had in it a clear echo of the October war when an Arab attack caught the Israelis off guard. The callup was officially described as a success "very important to us in case of real war with the Arabs."

There are United States intelligence reports, too, of new defensive strong-points on both sides of the line in the Sinai Desert. While the Israeli military exercises were in progress, one heard of major Egyptian forces deployed just west of the Suez Canal.

To add one further element of nervous tension there came word from Paris that France will resume arms sales in the Middle East. Intense military activity, the prospect of more arms: it all adds up to a highly worrisome situation.

Double Your Safety

The public's reluctance to accept automatically inflated air bags as an auto safety device may be eased somewhat by Department of Transportation findings about their potential effectiveness. A study released by the DOT estimates that universal installation of such passive restraints would reduce traffic deaths twice as much as the seat belt interlock system now required on new cars.

The reluctance mentioned above is not an imagined thing. People worry about possible malfunctions—a failure of the air bag to inflate in a crash situation or, almost as bad, an unexpected inflation when no crash is imminent. This attitude seems to be reflected in General Motors' experience with offering the air bags this year as optional equipment. Whereas the company had expected to sell 50,000, actual sales so far are only about 3,000.

Fears about air bag malfunctions are not wholly unfounded. Statistical data suggest that such fears are greatly exaggerated, however; the added safety factor far outweighs the small chance of malfunction.

That safety factor is enormous, in the judgment of those responsible for the Department of Transportation study. If air cushions and lap belts were made mandatory starting with the 1977 models, we are told, in the following nine years deaths would be reduced by 85,000 and there would be 5.4 million fewer injuries.

The comparison with the present interlock system is interesting. While belt-interlocks on all cars would save 7,000 lives and prevent 340,000 injuries annually, says the report, air bags on all cars would prevent a million injuries and save 15,600 lives per year.

The element of cost cannot be ignored. The belt-interlock-system, says the DOT, is expected to add about $100 to a car's cost as compared with about $210 for the air bag. Also, General Motors figures it would cost $500 to replace an air bag that had been inflated. These sums are far from negligible, but they must be viewed in perspective.

The comparative figures in the DOT report demand that the question be put thus: Is doubling one's chances of escaping a crash alive and uninjured worth the added cost? In our judgment the answer to that is yes.

REAGAN HINTS he won't run but says what happens in 1976 "depends on what the situation is." How's that for leaving open an option wide as a barn door?

A STUDY shows polluted air can travel scores of miles from cities to other communities. So much for the idea that pollution's strictly a city problem.

By JACK ANDERSON

and
LES WHITTEN

NEWARK — We have found ourselves sucked into the bizarre case of a mob-connected Irish-American hoodlum who has wrapped himself in the radical rhetoric of the Symbionese Liberation Army.

It's a tale of alleged murder, drug smuggling and flight; of how a young man is drawn into the underworld, and how the FBI flushed him out and was "bugged" in the process.

It began when 36-year-old John Tully called our office and told us he was tired of running. He wanted to turn himself in under our protection. Tully read to us from his wanted poster and told of his flight to Venezuela in 1971 to avoid a multiple mob murder charge.

In a gruff, tough-guy voice, Tully claimed he was a member of the "Peoples Liberation Army" and was dedicating the rest of his life to fighting "the vilest of vile monsters, the United States."

After checking Tully out, we decided to help arrange a peaceful surrender. But when our associates Jack Cloherty and Ed Tropeano arrived at Tully's Newark apartment early the next morning, they discovered that the FBI had been there a few hours earlier. Tully's wife Hilda, however, had taped the 1 a.m. confrontation between the feds and her husband.

"I am a man of God," the accused murderer shouted at the agents on the other side of the door. "The only weapons I have are two Bibles."

"Then you better start praying," came the FBI retort.

Tully told them he was standing naked, so they could not shoot him down for carrying a concealed weapon. "You will not intimidate me," Tully yelled. "I want to be served an arrest warrant, or I won't open that door. I won't be taken by an enemy of the people."

"We're the champions of the people," the FBI man bawled.

"You are not, you're the enemy of the people. I am a champion of the people," Tully responded.

"We are the champions of the people," the FBI man argued, standing outside the door.

"You'll have to bang the door down if you want me," Tully screamed.

The words were hardly out of his mouth when a loud thud cracked over the tape. The FBI was in. Mrs. Tully told us that seven agents, carrying shotguns and wearing bullet-proof vests burst in on her naked husband.

They searched the small apartment, but did not take the tape recording.

Driving to the arraignment, Mrs. Tully told us her husband's story.

"Drinking and fighting were his problems," she said. A striking Spanish woman who is deeply religious, Hilda Tully said her husband met his gangland friends in the state prison. Like many criminals, John Tully was a small-time tough until he fell in with already hardened criminals at the state correctional institution. Tully then became associated with New Jersey's notorious Campisi brothers.

Now, he is under indictment for four murders, cocaine smuggling and furthering a criminal conspiracy. Tully had asked us to arrange for his peaceful surrender to the United Nations or to a foreign embassy.

Using the slogans of the radical left, Tully said he should be turned over to a political body, since he was a "political prisoner."

But we were seeking to convince him that he would be better served if he agreed to return to Washington and turn himself over to the Justice Dept.

Tully's half-baked "political" arguments did not convince the U.S. magistrate either. Bail was set at $1.3 million and now this strange combination of gangland thug and radical is awaiting trial in New York.

B'LEAGUED BOSS: With Chicago Mayor Richard Daley alibi, the last of the big-city bosses is Meade Esposito, the tough, talented Democratic chief of Brooklyn. Now, however, we have learned the New York State special prosecutor's office is looking into Esposito.

Already, two Esposito-backed congressmen, three judges and two of his top aides have been indicted. One of the congressmen, Rep. Frank Brascos, D-N.Y., was recently convicted in a gangland case.

Ironically, Brascos was Esposito's boss in the late '60s when the Brooklyn boss worked briefly on Brascos' House staff. More recently, Esposito's nephew and his granddaughter have been on Brascos' congressional payroll.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: The Secret Service is putting together a visual training film for local and state law enforcement men on how to protect candidates, foreign dignitaries and others from assassination or other terrorist assaults. They've been digging in old network film files to study examples. The purpose: to give the famous from President Ford on down the most protection possible as they "press the flesh" in the traditional American way. . . . Hamilton Fish Sr., father of the House Judiciary Committee member who voted to impeach Richard Nixon, has joined with Dr. Ivan Docheff, in a newspaper campaign to keep Nixon out of jail. What the ads do not say is that Docheff, who claims he speaks for millions of East European exiles, was former leader of the World War II Bulgarian National Legion, identified to us by moderate Bulgarian exiles as "Fascist."

"What a pity - it WAS leaning your way, though!"

Inside Report

Disturbing Snub

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAE

WASHINGTON — The danger of continuing factionalism over economic policy within President Ford's official family, with the Treasury Department still in a distinctly secondary role, was grossly dramatized last week when Pierre Rinfret, a leading business economist, was summarily disinvited from the President's economic summit conference by decision of his staff.

What makes the snub to Rinfret inexplicable is the fact that President Ford himself had offered the invitation in a telephone conversation he had with Rinfret on Sunday, Aug. 25.

Moreover, according to informed White House officials, the President not only intended Rinfret to be included in the preliminary summit conference session of professional economists to be held Sept. 5, but also designated his Chief of Staff, Gen. Alexander Haig, as the Presidential aide with whom Rinfret should keep in regular touch.

Yet three days later — on Aug. 28 — Kenneth Rush, Richard Nixon's economic coordinator just named by Mr. Ford as chairman of the new Council on Wage and Price Stability, informed Rinfret there would be no invitation. When the list of 21 invited economists was released by the White House the next day Rinfret's name was not on it.

Rinfret, the president of Rinfret, Boston Associates, Inc., of New York, was accepting no calls from reporters on this bizarre and disturbing sequence of events. Yet, the antecedents of the President's telephone conversation with him on Aug. 25 and the subsequent snub threaten the White House with unpleasant political repercussions.

The original suggestion that the President consult Rinfret, one of the most successful business consultants in the nation, came from none other than Rep. Wilbur Mills, the influential chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. It was Mills who told Mr. Ford that Rinfret could be counted on to provide the "unvarnished truth" on the economic, no matter how disagreeable and no matter how much in conflict with the President's official advisors.

Indeed, the flamboyant Rinfret is widely regarded as the Peck's bad boy in the esoteric world of economists. His slashing critiques of administration economic policy have sometimes drawn blood — but his record, particularly in the hapless years of Nixonomics scarcely suffers in comparison to Nixon's stable of advisors.

It was Rinfret who issued a private warning about Nixonomics to his high-paying industrial clients in July 1969 in a manifesto titled "We Accuse." Despite Rinfret's bold charge then that the administration was "totally and utterly underestimating the inflationary bias in the economy," he continued to be used as a frequent Nixon advisor.

In addition to Mills, Rinfret has a close relationship with Secretary of the Treasury William Simon. As we reported last week, Simon is convinced that primary economic policy-making must be returned to the Treasury from the madcap hodgepodge of competing Oval Office aides — wholly apart from whether Mr. Ford wants Simon or someone else as his Secretary.

That is also the majority view of the President's transition team, whose recommendation to make the Secretary — any Secretary — the administration's chief economic spokesman is now under Mr. Ford's scrutiny. Yet in preparing for the economic summit, the first efforts by President Ford to come to grips with the frightening Nixon legacy of national and international economic crisis, the Treasury is playing a secondary role.

Rush, not Simon, has been placed in charge of the Cabinet "talking-point" papers leading up to the summit. It is William Seidman, a top White House aid and Ford intimate, not the Treasury, who is supplying the logistical backup and planning for the preliminary sessions and the Sept. 27 summit.

The fact that presidential advisors have now blackballed Mr. Ford's personal proposal that Rinfret take part in tomorrow's pre-summit session of professional economists carries disturbing implications. It suggests that Mr. Ford's economic advisors are unwilling to offer an administration forum to so blatant and formidable a critic as the blunt, outspoken Rinfret and his unceremonial advice.

That may smooth the path of tomorrow's session, but it contradicts the President's own desire to hear advice from all sides. It also suggests that Mr. Ford may become a prisoner of his own White House staff, now teeming with old and new economic advisors.

Considering the President's well-advertised contempt for the pervasive power of the Nixon White House staff, and the consequent downgrading of the Cabinet departments, that would be a supreme irony.

His Name Was Mudd

"I think we can expect Democrats on the Hill to be friendly for a few months. Tip O'Neill called and told me why I've been slicing"

The pelicans sit on old stringpieces over the edge of the channel. They watch Al Winterub bring his white and blue amphibian in on a smooth foamy landing. The heavy-jawed birds sit like 400 grouchy judges. They do not approve of man in flight and they do not deign to watch as he guns the plane up onto the white beach.

The birds were here, diving awkwardly for fish among the shoals of Dry Tortugas, long before man arrived to build a big, six-sided, red brick edifice called Fort Jefferson. The birds are still here, but, except for a half-dozen National Park Service guides, man has left.

The fort, with its shark moat, sheds tears of lime between its bricks. Inside is a huge parade ground and, up on the ramparts, old Civil War cannon rust in the tropical sun. It is gone, dead. The lighthouse is blind and cannot warn ships traversing the Gulf of Mexico to the Atlantic Ocean.

The flat hot sea is speckled with smaller keys wearing night green jungle haircuts. Ponce deLeon sailed north through here in 1513 and called them Las Tortugas — the turtles — because many, as big as sewer plates, mate here.

Nothing good happened at Fort Jefferson. It lies 68 nautical miles west of Key West and, although the Army Corps of Engineers worked at it from 1846 until 1876, it was never completed. It was situated farther south than any Confederate post, but the Union soldiers were not above using slave labor to fashion the eight-foot thick walls.

They thought they were building on solid coral. The walls settled in sand and began to crack. Cisterns dug for fresh water were brackish and salty. Billions of mosquitoes spent the winters at the fort.

At the end of the Civil War, the cannons and cannon balls were in place, but someone invented a rifle cannon. This made all the smooth bore guns obsolete. The U.S. Government decided to make a prison of the place — an American Devil's Island.

In 1866, the prisoners outnumbered the garrison — 800 to 500. Among them was Dr. Samuel Mudd. This was a bearded physician who owned a farm near Brytown, Md. On the night that John Wilkes Booth assassinated President Abraham Lincoln, he planned escape route was through Surrattsville, Md., down to Port Tobacco — there to rent a boat to row to safety in Virginia.

Booth had a broken leg jumping to the stage at Ford's Theater. A spur had caught in a U.S. Treasury flag. The pain caused him to slow his roan mare, and he told young David Herold, a co-conspirator, that he would have to change his plans and head for a doctor at Brytown.

Mudd was a Southern sympathizer, intelligent and loyal. He had met Booth once before, at a horse sale. The assassin remembered the doctor; Mudd did not remember Booth. The actor did not trust the doctor, and wore an obviously false beard when he awakened the physician.

It was still dark on the morning of April 15th, 1865, when Booth said his mare had stumbled and he had broken his leg. The doctor knew nothing of an assassination, but he remembered his oath as a physician.

He cut the boot from the actor's leg and splinted it. "Please don't ride," he said. "Stay here. That is a bad break." Booth and Herold fled. They told the doctor they were heading for Washington.

In time, Booth was shot. Others were hanged. Sam Mudd, who originated the expression, "My name is Mudd," was sentenced to life imprisonment. Secretary of War Stanton, who felt that the doctor had been let off lightly, had him removed from an Albany prison in New York to Dry Tortugas.

Once, the innocent doctor tried to escape in a barge. He was prodded with bayonets and placed in a large brick cell. The two windows were sealed with iron. His primary problem was to stave off madness.

In 1867, the mosquitoes brought yellow fever. Among the first to die was the post surgeon, Major Joseph S. Smith. Mudd volunteered to help. The post commandant had a spitting contempt for Dr. Mudd, but he had no choice.

Mudd said, "First, sir, remove the bricks and iron doors which cover the windows. Give the men some circulation, and chase the mosquitoes out." It was done reluctantly. Over 270 soldiers and prisoners were stricken. Mudd and Dr. Daniel Whitehurst, who came from Key West, held the deaths to 38.

The soldiers petitioned President Andrew Johnson to parole Dr. Mudd back to his home in Brytown. In 1869, it was done. Mudd aged and dying, clenching his fists because men refused to understand that his function was to save life, not to take it . . .

Letters to the Editor

Opposes Rockefeller

Editor, The Freeman:

This is an open letter to the community: copy of this letter was sent to Congressman Fish, Senators Buckley and Javits, urging them not to confirm the nomination of Mr. Rockefeller for Vice President of this country. We encourage members of this community who agree with the non-acceptability of Mr. Rockefeller to voice their objections to their representation in the Congress while there is still time.

The selection of former New York Governor Rockefeller as the Vice President designate is a stunning indication that the Ford Administration is committed to a policy of Power and Prestige First and the People of the Nation Second.

Mr. Rockefeller is hailed, as a man who could support peace abroad. In fact, while governor, he alone approved and sustained a greater level of violence than has ever been known in the land. This was the persistent support for permissive abortion. In New York state alone, during the three year period between 1970 when Governor Rockefeller signed the permissive abortion law, and in 1973 when he relinquished the Governorship to Malcolm Wilson, it was estimated that there were some three-quarters of a million abortions in this state.

As Vice President, Mr. Rockefeller would preside over the Senate. A Human Life Amendment, which would restore respect for life, including the unborn, aged, defectives and all Americans as the framers of the Constitution intended, is now being studied by a committee of that body. It is inconceivable that Mr. Rockefeller would permit full and fair consideration by the full Senate, were he the presiding officer. His selection there must be viewed as a commitment by the Ford Administration to continue to disenfranchise the millions of Americans not yet born who will be killed by abortion.

Mr. Rockefeller's record of absolute support for legalized killing indicates that he would find no problem approving, and urging the President to approve, the various other forms of respectable killing now being urged by various groups, including organizations supported by the Rockefeller Foundation.

Mr. Rockefeller's talents as an administrator and executive are not the issue here. What is at issue is that Mr. Rockefeller puts power and influence first and humanity second. We can think of no greater shame for this nation than a man of this leaning as the potential President of the greatest nation in the world.

We urge the citizens of New York State and the nation to repudiate violence by demanding that Congress insist on a vice president who will stand for all Americans, not just the powerful and the elite.

Sincerely,
MRS. JOHANNA JANKOWSKI

Fears Chaotic Times

Editor, The Freeman:

Unless Washington takes the initiative to straighten out its own house, I see further chaotic times ahead. We are in a period of great financial transition, and unless we take time to right our wrongs, we will suffer severe national disaster. Presently, we are at the threshold of another depression, possibly far worse than that of the great depression.

If the present economic conditions of this country are not brought under control soon, we are indeed going to be in a very sad situation. And if Washington wishes to break the back of this uncontrollable inflation, their easy way out would be to cause this nation to succumb to total financial death. And many people would lose their homes and jobs, money itself would all but disappear. Each and every one of us would have to start our financial lives all over again.

You say it can't happen? The government has too many safety check valves to lead off a depression. As we can see if our leaders had this financial safety valve, we surely would not be in the monetary mess that we now find ourselves in. Washington once had an economic check and balance system that kept this country on its course. It no longer has that system and unless the president and all of Washington "fix" it, a sound financial formula will be again we will be in a dire situation.

Washington must take first straighten out its own house, so that it can straighten out the entire economic mess of America.

Sincerely,
BEN MARCHETTI

Open Letter To Mr. Keefe and Mr. Hackett

Editor, The Freeman:

It is true that many of the large industries that were once located in the village are no longer in the village, but they have not gone from Saugerties either. F. L. Russell, Ferro-cue, Beuern research, and even a new one, FX systems, still employ many people both in the town and village, although no longer in the village. Within the village, we have industry such as C&S Shoes, the old Dynacool Firm and Lyric Designs Corporation, and dress factories. (Just a note of interest. When Canteen was in operation, the water for industrial use came from the Esopus Creek, not from the village water supply.)

I'm disturbed, in several ways, with the letter "Where Did All of our Industry Go?" signed by Walter Keefe and Anthony Hackett. First I'm disturbed by the fact that this letter really sounds like a campaign speech for future candidates of the Town Board, rather than a letter to the trustees of the Village Board. Secondly, I'm disturbed because just how much real tax money will be realized by the village because of this shopping center? This increased assessment will go to the town and not to the village.

Who really is in the minority here, since neither one of you, especially you, Mr. Keefe, would rescind your motion of the August 5 meeting of the Village Board, granting Bathing, sewage and water, and allow the people to decide to find a Village Trustee. That's who the real minority. Maybe you are the minority.

I will agree with you that we should encourage development of the town, but proper development, not irresponsible development. And since your concern is for the future of our town, did you consult with the Town Board as to its feelings, knowing they and the Town Planning Board are in the middle of a Zoning Ordinance that might have prohibited such a complex to be placed there.

Outside concerns are needed for the Village and Town, but not every Tom, Dick, and Harry that's got money to burn and wants to build, and turn virgin land into asphalt pavement.

As far as what these so-called interest groups, that you claim are in the minority have done for the people, let's ask what the Village Board has done for said same. One thing is quite obvious. You have raised our taxes. Everybody knows that taxes go up every year, but the bite this year was hard to swallow, especially for the amount of services the people really receive.

Gentlemen, there are far too many dormant areas within the village that could be developed, that would help the tax base for the village population much more than the sale of our water and sewage to outside developers outside the village. If perhaps you can't see any dormant areas, let me point some out to you: Lower Parson Street, where my shop is located, and the South Side where Saugerties got its start. Think the tax revenue would be huge if these areas were to be developed for small industry, housing, and more small business. If you gentlemen would spend as much time encouraging these areas as you have in building up the village, you would be of more help to the town.

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIAM H. BROWN SR.

Saugerties, N.Y.

Four-Year Question

Editor, The Freeman:

Who said there's nothing new under the Ulster County sun?

This Primary Day, Sept. 10, all registered voters will be asked to vote on a proposition to extend the term of office for Ulster County Legislators from two years to four years. Normally, such a proposition would be voted upon in November on the usual Election Day. Normally, no voter would object to expressing his wish by voting on that day. I wonder why our legislators chose Primary Day for such an important decision. Normally, less than 25 percent of the voters turn out to select their party candidates on Primary Day. Normally, all non-enrolled voters (Independents) do not vote on this day. In fact, they wouldn't be allowed to vote in a Primary. Consequently, only a small minority of the electorate will vote on a proposition which will affect the entire county. There is still time for our legislators to reconsider and postpone this important balloting on the proposition until Election Day in November, instead of disenfranchising all the non-enrolled voters.

Excuse me a moment. There is a faint commotion outside my window.

It was nothing. Just 24 men running through the street and shouting, "The voter's dead. Long live the Ulster County Legislature."

Yours truly,
LOUIS FAGON

Mosquito Control

Editor, The Freeman:

The Daily News reported two children stricken with encephalitis — one 6½ years old, one 14 months old. This disease is transmitted through mosquito bites and is fatal to 50 per cent of those it strikes. Last year and this summer many pets, particularly dogs, were found to have contracted heart worm transmitted through infected mosquitoes. Why in heaven's name aren't the states, counties, villages etc., using planes to spray twice during the summer to cut down the infestation of mosquitoes? When we banded together and had our area sprayed — we could enjoy our yards, gardens and pools.

Since we stopped — you take your life in your hands to step outside from spring to fall. Of course, many people could care less if their poor pet has his or her life span shortened because they contact heart worm, but must we have a human, particularly a child, lose their lives because the areas weren't sprayed? Cape Cod has a fine mosquito control system — why can't something be done in New York State?

Sincerely,
DOROTHY GALITZKY

GM Recalling Trucks, Buses

DETROIT (UPI) — General Motors Corp. today said it has begun recalling 42,000 medium-duty trucks and 500 school buses because of possible defects that could result in a full or partial loss of braking power.

GM said the Chevrolet and GMC medium-duty trucks were built in the first six months of the year. There have been no accidents or injuries as a result of the problem which was discovered during a routine assembly line inspection.

A GM spokesman said the possibility exists that one or more of the hydraulic brake hoses may have been manufactured with an end fitting which was not properly attached to the hose. This could result in hose separation and the loss of brake fluid.

On vehicles equipped with dual braking systems, only a partial loss would be suffered. However, failure of the hose in a single braking system could result in complete loss of brake fluid and braking action.

Hijacker Seized At Airport

BOSTON (UPI) — A young man today held an Eastern Airlines captain at knifepoint for almost four hours at Logan International Airport and demanded $10,000 ransom "for the poor people of Roxbury" before surrendering.

The hijacker was seized at the plane by law enforcement officials who immediately frisked him, handcuffed him and took him away.

Officials said the captain, a much decorated Navy veteran of World War II, was not injured.

There were no passengers or other crew members aboard the DC9 shuttle from New York.

A Federal Aviation Administration spokesman said the money was placed on the runway in sight of the hijacker as he demanded, but it was not certain if he picked it up.

The hijacker, using the plane's two-way radio, was in radio communication with the airport tower.

Officials said the plane requested and received permission to takeoff. The captured captain, L.E. Whittaker, asked that another pilot be put aboard the plane.

A spokesman for Eastern Airlines said the hijacker demanded $10,000 and said the money would be given to the "poor people of Roxbury."

John Richmond, an Eastern official, said the unidentified hijacker rushed down the plane's aisle as passengers were departing. He grabbed the captain by the throat and pulled out a knife, officials said.

LaGuardia Airport at 7 a.m. and arrived at Logan at 7:40 a.m.

"Apparently he didn't make his presence known until the passengers were starting to leave the plane. He ordered the plane to be emptied. We understand the man is a young black male with a razor or knife," the spokesman said.

Airlines spokesman William Owens said the hijacker demanded $10,000 and said the money would be given to the "poor people of Roxbury."

John Richmond, an Eastern official, said the unidentified hijacker rushed down the plane's aisle as passengers were departing. He grabbed the captain by the throat and pulled out a knife, officials said.

Barricaded Family Leaves Consulate

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "We came out because the American police said they'd help us," said Charlotte Berenguer. "We decided there was no use in staying forever," said her daughter, Jackie.

Joseph Berenguer, his wife, son and three daughters occupied the French consulate here for seven hours on Tuesday. They threatened to set it on fire before emerging after listening to the pleas of a longtime friend and sheriff's officers.

The French nationals said they were frustrated over repeated attempts to settle a 12-year-old claim for $20,000 for land confiscated when France granted independence to Algeria in 1962.

"It's a matter of honor," daughter Jeannie, 16, said at one point.

The Berenguers, who run a French delicatessen in Santa Barbara, entered the office of Consul General Jean Francois Roux on Tuesday afternoon, ejected its lone occupant, a secretary, and nailed the door shut.

They said they planned to fast for justice and announced, "We have enough gasoline to burn down the building and we're willing to burn with it unless we get justice."

"We've been coming to the consulate for seven years and the government refuses to pay us for the property they took from us," Jeannie said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press.

"My family owned a factory and farm in French Africa (now Algeria), but when the French-African war started there, they told us to go to France and they would help us start over, but they haven't helped us at all."

The Berenguers stayed inside for seven hours while police and sheriff's officers kept a vigil and friends told them to come out.

Finally, Peter Noel Medina, 46, a friend who said he had similar claims, told them they had won the public's attention and could do no more good by extending their stay. They voted to come out.

Sheriff's deputies removed three one-gallon glass jugs of clear liquid from the consulate offices after the Berenguers left. Each was labeled in red: "Danger — Gasoline." But a fire department spokesman said they contained water.

Consulate officials were not available for comment on the Berenguers' complaint.

Sheriff's spokesman Jim Valdez said no charges were brought against the family because "they were on foreign soil as far as we are concerned."

Authorities said those inside were Joseph Berenguer, 52; Charlotte, 40; Jackie, 17; Jeannie, 16; Daniel, 14, and Barbara, 5.

Man Critical After Collision

STAATSBURG — Roberts was listed in critical condition today at St. Francis Hospital. The Firman woman was listed in satisfactory condition today at Vassar Brothers Hospital. Showers was treated and released at North Dutchess Hospital.

State police identified the three drivers involved in the collision as John Roberts, 43, at about 7 p.m. on Route 9 near 23, of Hyde Park, and James Showers, 23, of Rhinebeck.

Roberts was charged with failure to keep right.

you yet.

DAUGHTERS

What I would give to see you smile,
And sit with you and talk awhile.
Day and night I think of you,
The things you use to say and do.

The blow was sudden, the shock severe,
To part with you, so kind and dear.

I wonder why you had to die,
Without a chance to say good-bye.

Miss you,
Niece, PAT SAUER

Report Bush To Be Named China Envoy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican National Chairman George Bush has been chosen to become U.S. envoy to China, party sources said today.

Mary Louise Smith of Des Moines, Iowa, currently co-chairman of the national committee, will replace Bush and Richard D. Obenshain will become her assistant, it was learned. Obenshain currently is chairman of the Virginia Republican party.

White House officials indicated the announcement would be made shortly concerning these changes.

George Bush, of Texas, would replace David Bruce as the head of the U.S. mission in Peking. Bush, 50, a former congressman and chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, has headed the GOP since Jan. 19, 1973, when he was chosen by former President Nixon to succeed Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas.

Mrs. Smith, 59, who was brought to the GOP National Committee last February by Bush, would be the first woman to head the Republican party. The wife of a doctor, she has three children.

Dynamite Bandit Costs $27,000

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (UPI) — An armed bandit, draping dynamite around the neck of a hostage to make his escape, held up a bank in this Monroe County community Tuesday and made off with some $27,000.

State police said the holdup man, armed with a revolver, walked into the office of bank manager John P. Brown at the Northeastern National Bank and demanded money from the bank's cash drawers.

Employees were seemingly unaware of the robbery until after the holdup man and Brown left the bank.

State police said the bandit, who apparently wore a detonating device, wrapped a string of three sticks of dynamite around Brown's neck before he and the manager drove off in the hostage's car.

Brown was found unharmed a short time later, blindfolded and tied to a tree near the Pocono Manor Golf Course, some three miles from the bank.

Authorities said the suspect abandoned the car and apparently fled on foot.

DUCKTAILS AND DENIMS — Music of the Fifties comes alive again as girls and boys from the fifth, sixth and seventh

Camp Musical Through the Ages

MUSIC was the unifying theme recently as pupils at Camp Jay Cee Cee on Hurley Mountain Road presented "Music Through the Ages."

The program opened with a Stone Age scene as nursery and kindergarten groups presented the "Theme From the Flintstones." Girls from the first and second grades presented "Snake Charmer," a musical rendition of Biblical times.

Olde England was the next to receive the treatment as boys from the first and second grades presented "Robin Hood" while boys from the third and fourth grades brought the Revolutionary War era to life with "The Star Spangled Banner."

Girls from the third and fourth grades presented a rousing "Can Can" dance to interpret the Gay Nineties, and the Roaring Twenties got the treatment from fifth grade boys, who presented "Has Anybody Seen My Gal?"

Girls and boys from the fifth, sixth and seventh grades did three numbers, "Peppermint Twist," "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy," and "Soldier Boy," to represent the fifties, while the following sponsors: Dino's, entire group collaborated on Swap Shop, Ye Olde Tavern, Friends, a tribute to the Pizzeria's, McDonald's Boat Basin, Two Guys From Yonkers, and the New York Telephone Company.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market fell sharply today in an atmosphere of renewed dismay over inflation and economic prospects as well as the poor recent performance of the market itself.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down more than 10 points a few minutes after the opening, and losers took a 3-to-1 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said hopes late last week for an easing of tight money pressures appeared to be waning. Treasury bill rates, which had pulled back Thursday and Friday, rebounded on Tuesday.

Meanwhile, brokers noted, many investors were disappointed that stock prices had turned downward Tuesday, failing to extend last Friday's sharp technical rally.

Today's prices included RCA, unchanged at 12; Sears, Roebuck, off 1/4 at 55 1/2; American Cyanamid, down 1 at 18 1/2; and Control Data, off 1/4 at 16 1/2.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was off 1.16 at 69.12.

Two Critical Issues at Stake In Coal Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big wage increases and other fringe benefits than in obtaining nationwide coal strike appear to depend on two critical issues: increased safety for the miners and greater production for the owners.

Despite optimism expressed at the start of negotiations for avoiding a strike, initial government officials are concerned that a long strike would seriously aggravate the nation's economic and energy problems.

Union sources said they expect less difficulty in winning the big wage increases and other fringe benefits than in obtaining nationwide coal strike appear to depend on two critical issues: increased safety for the miners and greater production for the owners.

The national contract covering 75 per cent of the nation's coal expires Nov. 12, and government officials are concerned that a long strike would seriously aggravate the nation's economic and energy problems.

Guerrillas Are Wiped Out By Israelis

By United Press International
An Israeli army patrol wiped out the remnants of a bloodied Palestinian guerrilla squad today in the heaviest fighting along the Lebanese frontier in more than two months.

The battle, which ended a 30-hour, cat-and-mouse confrontation along the border, came after reports of repeated Israeli incursions into Lebanon to search Arab villages for the commandos.

The military command in Tel Aviv said two guerrillas and two Israeli soldiers were killed in the pre-dawn battle near the border village of Babuta. It said two other Israeli soldiers were wounded.

The command said the killings wiped out a four-man commando squad that crossed the frontier Monday night and penetrated two miles into Israeli territory. The Israelis reported two guerrillas slain Monday night when troops spotted the infiltration squad climbing a lighted fence.

Angell Wants Reforms

POUGHKEEPSIE — "Watergate will happen again unless appropriate reforms are enacted," according to Nicholas B. Angell, Democratic candidate in the 25th Congressional District.

"The time to enact these reforms is during the next session of Congress when the experience of Watergate is still fresh in our minds," he said. Angell warned about what he called "the pit-falls of the nightmare is over attitude." "Congress must take definite steps on two fronts," he said. "It must guard against the excessive abuse of power which characterized the Nixon administration's epic scandal, and it must revitalize itself so that it is able to promptly deal with major problems instead of being bogged down with debate, detail and procedures."

"Our Congress has crippled itself," he elaborated, "with archaic rules and procedures, excessive secrecy, and undemocratic and debilitating seniority system, an outmoded and ineffective committee system, campaign laws which grossly favor an incumbent over a challenger, and a staffing and information system no longer suitable for effective government."

Emphasizing the need for new legislation to maintain the smooth functioning of the constitutional system of checks and balances, the 42-year-old attorney stressed the importance of an independent prosecutor who would investigate governmental corruption and ensure the civil liberties accorded the individual citizen by the Constitution remain intact.

"The independent prosecutor," Angell explained, "could bring agencies such as the CIA, FBI and IRS under close scrutiny and thus eliminate their political use as well as assure their accountability to the taxpayer."

Angell expressed sharp concern with the invasion of privacy evident in the pervasive wire-tapping by the Nixon administration. Scoring "government conducted in secret," he decried "the inaccessibility of information as well as attempts to politically inhibit the press, our fourth branch of government."

As Watergate shows, Angell pointed out, "no effort by government should be permitted to inhibit the media because continued public disclosure by the media is essential to honest, representative government."

'Government Has Failed' ... Candidate Hits Interests

POUGHKEEPSIE — Family income taxes are up 16.9 per cent.

— Fuel and gas costs have climbed 73 per cent.

— "Government spending," Angell said, "can be reduced by at least $10 billion, thus balancing the federal budget without jeopardizing human needs, social or economic programs. Overseas spending can be substantially minimized, particularly our heavy financing of the endless war in Southeast Asia and the cost of stationing one half million troops in Europe and Asia."

"Today we best serve our own interests and those of the rest of the world by giving priority to our own serious needs," Angell said, indicating that part of the reduction in spending would come from "trimming the bureaucratic fat" of the defense budget, which would also result in "hardening the muscle of the fighting military force."

As an example of abundant defense "fat," Angell tagged the present structure of the military as "too heavy." Angell noted that the same number of officers commanded 12 million troops after World War II as are now directing two million.

Angell proposed tax reform which would generate an additional $10 billion without increasing the taxes of the lower and middle income groups. "These revenues should be used," he said, "to finance public works and job-training programs which would reduce unemployment. This money would also add to funds available to local communities for human needs and economic development."

"The $10 billion revenue must be generated," Angell explained, "by taking from the haves." This would include elimination of the oil depletion allowance, reduction of the tax advantage of the multi-national companies, and closing of other large-figure loopholes and other tax advantages.

"Economists agree that too-high government spending is at the root of all inflation," Angell stated. "Therefore $10 billion of the aggregate $20 billion should simply not be spent. The remaining $10 billion must be used in programs which actively counter unemployment," he concluded.

SLOAN CAMPAIGNS — Michael Sloan (R) Democratic Primary contender in the 27th Congressional District campaigned door-to-door in Ulster County last weekend. On leave from his Carnegie Foundation post, Sloan told of his ITHACA in this effort. He also called academic programs in Administration," McHugh said. Federal funding of continuing education programs received the endorsement today of Democrat-Liberal candidate for Congress in the 27th District, Matthew McHugh.

"We have begun to recognize that learning is a process which continues long after the formal school years," he said. "For an increasing number of Americans education in the adult years is necessary for employment and advancement. A recent survey shows that 75 per cent of our adult population would benefit from programs of continuing education."

McHugh also pointed out that 57 million adults 16 years of age and older had not completed high school. "These are the people most subject to unemployment," McHugh said. "We must develop programs to train them for the current job market and maintain their skills to keep pace with changing conditions," he said.

McHugh expressed his support for the principles of the Life-Long Learning Act, a bill now under study in Washington. "This legislation would provide financial incentives to the states to develop continuing education programs. The needs of our adult population would be determined, our available educational resources would be inventoried, and programs would be developed to provide the people with the tools they really need for happy and productive lives."

Federal Funding Endorsed

McHugh Criticizes 'Outdoor Bill'

ITHACA Matthew F. McHugh, Democratic candidate for Congress in the 27th District, today criticized billboard legislation which is expected to be reported out of the House Public Works Committee shortly.

The legislation being considered by the House Committee is an amendment to this year's Highway Construction Act. McHugh claimed it would relax control over the installation of outdoor advertising devices and thus encourage the spread of billboards along federally-financed highways.

"I believe this issue to be of particular importance to the 27th District where miles of major highways pass through some of the most beautiful landscape in the country," McHugh said. "I favor strong legislation to reasonably restrict outdoor advertising along federally-funded highways. As it stands, this bill would have an adverse impact on the environment of our region."

McHugh also called for financial incentives to states and local communities to regulate signs along highways within their jurisdictions. "Standards must be established and enforced at all levels of government if sign control is to be effective. The federal government must take the lead in developing and maintaining such legislation for federal highways and provide the incentives that state and local governments need to counter the loss of revenue that outdoor advertising produces," McHugh said.

McHugh said that some outdoor advertising was reasonable and fair. However, he noted that outdoor advertising devices are getting bigger, more prominent and more visually objectionable each year. He claimed that the powerful outdoor advertising lobby has consistently opposed highway beautification legislation since its enactment in 1970.

"I believe the interests of our district require that it be supported," he said.

'Fire Old Nixon Staffers'

BINGHAMTON Democratic candidate for Congress in the 27th District, Michael Sloan has called on President Gerald R. Ford to fire all members of the old Nixon staff with the exception of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. Sloan said that Roy Ash, director of the President's Office of Management and Budget, recently blamed inflation on "consumer binge". Sloan said that "once again, as the former chairman of the Council on Economic Advisors Herbert Stein has done, the old Nixon people are blaming the American people and not government for inflation."

He said it is his hope that President Ford will move quickly to replace the Nixon people who are still remaining in high administrative positions.

Sloan recalled that the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy said that to change policies you must first change the people who are making them. "Therefore the first step to fight inflation is for President Ford to divorce himself from inept economic policies and those who authored these policies of his predecessor former President Richard M. Nixon."

Dyson Gives Views On Disputes Council

MILLBROOK John S. Dyson, Millbrook Democrat, today outlined his views on one of the major issues to face the Democratic National Convention to be held in Kansas City. Dyson is a candidate for the delegate position from the 25th Congressional District. The delegates will be chosen in the Sept. 10 Democratic Primary.

Dyson, who is chairman of the New York State Democratic Advisory Council, discussed the question of whether the new Democratic Party Charter should include provision for a judicial council to decide intra-party disputes. He noted that the basic idea was to establish a kind of judiciary system for the party, which would then decide on challenges to the selection of delegates and other matters. Opponents of the council suggest that these decisions are usually part and parcel of a convention and revolve around the disputes and implications for a particular group or candidate. Because of this, opponents of the judicial council contend that a widely respected impartial body would be virtually impossible to create.

Dyson said it is his own feeling that "we should develop some mechanism to consider these kinds of challenges outside of the convention arena. However, rather than attempt to establish a small group to act as a judicial council, I would propose we adopt a policy whereby the Democratic National Committee as a whole could decide these questions or delegate them to a small group when they deal with specific issues such as credentials for delegates to a national convention," he said. "Any judicial council would have a very difficult time in establishing itself as a legitimate and respected organization. Many of these decisions are fundamentally political."

"I oppose any attempt to take political decisions that rightfully belong in the political arena and place them in a quasi-judicial context. While there are some good arguments for a limited judicial council, I believe that the practical problems of establishing such a council that would have sufficient credibility within the Democratic Party make it an idea that simply cannot be implemented," he concluded.

GOP Candidate Critical of Poll

BINGHAMTON Republican candidate for Congress from the 27th District, Franklin B. Resseguie has issued a statement critical of a poll conducted for one of his Republican opponents, Broome County Executive Edwin L. Crawford, and of Crawford himself.

Resseguie did not fare well in the poll, finishing tied for last, with only 1.8 per cent of the voters contacted favoring his candidacy.

Resseguie said, "Mr. Crawford's refusal to divulge to the public details regarding his poll has the effect of deceiving the public. Every candidate has pockets of strength in this district and each candidate is aware of this strength."

"The public should be told what criteria were used for choosing names to be called for the Crawford poll; whether the pollsters limited their calls to certain areas; whether names and areas were given to the pollsters to call; and whether the poll covered all seven counties, or only one county."

According to Resseguie, "Persons who are familiar with the political scene recognize that the poll does not reflect political strengths in the district."

"This raises the questions as to the validity of the poll which can easily be answered by Mr. Crawford disclosing the details of the poll to the public," Resseguie concluded.

Weyant Scores County Forces

HIGHLAND FALLS Calling county police forces "a waste of taxpayer's money," King James Weyant, Democratic candidate for the State Senate in the 40th District, has come out in favor of State Police protection rather than county police assistance to the residents of the district.

The Highland Falls mayor said that "County police forces are one of many duplications of state services by county agencies," he said, "and, therefore, another waste of taxpayer's money."

"I recommend a close relationship between the State Police and village, town and city forces, and a strengthening of the ranks of the State Police where undermanned," Weyant said.

"The State Police have the training, equipment and knowledge that the counties cannot and should not, for economy's sake, duplicate. This fiscal irresponsibility is a huge factor of our inflation woes today," Weyant concluded.

Schechter Endorsements

BINGHAMTON Two significant endorsements of the candidacy of William Schechter, Democratic Primary contender in the 27th Congressional District were announced Tuesday.

Chairman John J. Burns who is also the former mayor of Binghamton, came out publicly for Schechter as did Ben Nichols, former congressional candidate and founder of the New Democratic Coalition in the Tompkins County area.

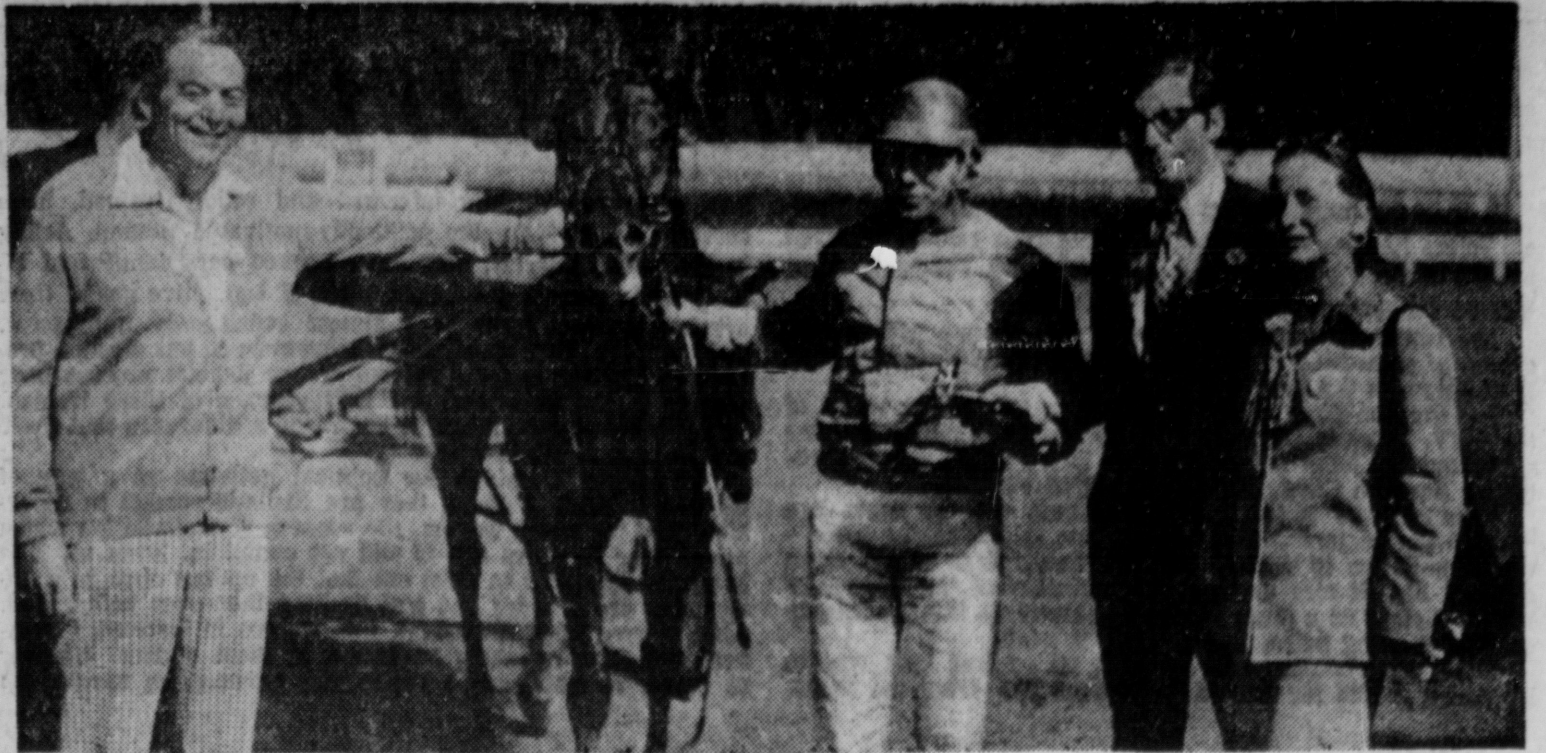

Schechter sees the endorsements as a double-barreled boon to his candidacy in that they came from Burns a man of high integrity among the regular Democrats and from Nichols who represents the reform Democrats.

In endorsing the Lake Hill resident, Burns pointed to Schechter's background and unique experience in having worked with both State Comptroller Arthur Levitt and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Nichols also cited Schechter's experience saying it is wider than that of Tompkins County's favorite son, Matthew McHugh, with regard to both national and international background.

"When two men of such prominence from the region of my three primary opponents throw their support to me, it makes me pleased and proud," Schechter said.

The Ulster County Democrat also faces Robert Kropp and Michael Sloan, both of Binghamton.

PRESENTATION FOR SCHECHTER — William Schechter (second right) Democratic Primary candidate in the 27th Congressional District, had the sixth race at Monticello

Resnick Appointed

ELLENVILLE Harry Resnick, prominent Ellenville businessman, has been appointed finance chairman for Ulster and Sullivan counties for the William Schechter for Congress campaign, it was announced today.

Schechter is a candidate in the Democratic primary for the nomination in the 27th Congressional District. He carried the Ulster County designating convention by a more than 2-to-1 margin over his nearest opponent earlier in the campaign.

Resnick is the brother of the late Congressman Joseph V. Resnick of Ellenville, who twice was elected to represent a Catskill Congressional district that since has been reapportioned into three other districts.

Louis Resnick, also a surviving brother of the late congressman and an Ulster County legislator, (D-Dist. 8) will actively participate in the two-county fund-raising effort, Schechter said.

Schechter, of Lake Hill said he is "most gratified that Harry Resnick, with the able assistance of his brother Lou, will spearhead our final push to meet some important objectives in the primary campaign.

Fund-raising had been difficult in this year of economic slump — at least for the ambitious program we had hoped to develop. But now we are assured of being able to mount an effective campaign throughout the district, and I'm confident it will provide what we need to win the primary."

Cooke Urges Ceiling On Campaign Funds

MONTICELLO Justice Lawrence H. Cooke of Monticello, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, Appellate Division, today called on all candidates for the two vacancies on the Court of Appeals to join in a pledge to the people of the state to conduct "a low keyed and dignified campaign suited to the high office they seek."

Judge Cooke decried "the unseemly spectacle of candidates for high office vying to package themselves into the most saleable product, with the result that form has replaced substance, and image has overcome reality."

The jurist invited other candidates for the Court of Appeals to forego "demeaning high-powered media campaigns," and voluntarily place a $50,000 campaign spending limit on the Sept. 10 Democratic Primary.

Judge Cooke, who was designated by the Democratic State Committee for one of the two vacancies, and endorsed by the New Democratic Coalition, pointed out that if voluntary spending limits are not agreed to, a candidate's financial status could be the principal qualification for high office.

"Under the American system, race, color, creed or sex are not qualifications for holding office, an neither should the availability of large sums of money be a practical necessity for seeking an elective public position, particularly one of the judiciary," Judge Cooke said. He added that forcing candidates without vast personal resources to engage in extensive fund-raising is not a healthy situation.

Judge Cooke has served on the bench for over 20 years, and has been on the Appellate Division for the past five and one-half years. Prior to that, he served as a Trial Justice of the Supreme Court and as County Judge and Surrogate of Sullivan County. He has also been endorsed by the Liberal Party in the general election.

Bar Rates Pair High

ALABANY The New York State Bar Association has rated Lawrence H. Cooke and Harold A. Stevens as "well qualified" to serve on the state's highest court. Both candidates are running for nomination to the Court of Appeals in the Democratic primary on Sept. 10. Evaluation procedures on the third candidate in that race, Jacob Fuchsberg, have not been completed.

The Association also found Louis M. Greenblott of Binghamton, a Justice of the Appellate Division and Republican Party candidate for the Court of Appeals, "well qualified." Stevens is also a candidate on the Republican ticket. Conservative Party candidate Henry S. Middendorf Jr. was found "Not qualified" because in the light of his experience to date "he has not affirmatively demonstrated the qualifications necessary for the performance of the duties of Associate Judge of the Court of Appeals."

The ratings were announced by Whitney North Seymour Jr., the association's president, who said that all of the candidates who had been found "well qualified" had achieved impressive records of judicial service and were highly regarded for their ability, impartiality and fairness. Cooke has served on the bench since 1954 and on the Appellate Division, Third Department, since 1969. Stevens has had 24 years of judicial service and held the position of Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division, First Department, when he was named last January to fill a vacancy on the Court of Appeals by Gov. Malcolm Wilson. Greenblott has served on the bench since 1962, and as a member of the Appellate Division, Third Department, since 1969.

Seymour took the occasion to again urge the adoption of a plan for the non-partisan merit selection of all judges.

The State Bar Association continues to deplore the unfair and unworkable procedures in the so-called popular election of judges. The need for soliciting campaign contributions is compromising to the concept of judicial independence. The process of asking the ordinary voter to pass on the professional qualifications of candidates on the basis of totally inadequate information is a charade. "Until the Legislature initiates a constitutional referendum to permit the public to decide on merit selection," he continued, "we must do the best we can under the present system. The association's non-political Committee on Judicial Selection, acting under carefully prescribed procedures and guidelines, has prepared these ratings of the qualifications of the candidates on the basis of interviews and investigations among other judges and lawyers. We hope these ratings will assist the public in making sound choices at the polls."

Seymour also announced that the Association had found Justice Ellis J. Stately of Albany, a member of the Appellate Division, Third Department, "well qualified" in his race for re-election to the Supreme Court.

Membership Drive Opens: Saugerties LWV

A quest for memberships in the Saugerties League of Women Voters has been launched according to a release received by the Women's Department of The Daily Freeman. Mrs. Marcia Childers is membership chairman.

The composition and structure of the League will be discussed at a meeting of the Saugerties group Wednesday, Sept. 11 at 8 p.m. in the Sawyer Savings Bank.

For the benefit of those interested in joining the ranks of the LWV, Patricia LaSusa of the Saugerties organization, has submitted the following information based on an article written by Barbara Chew, editor of the NYS VOTER.

"The passage of the 19th Amendment over 50 years ago marked the beginning of a process that is still taking place—the assimilation of women into the mainstream of American political life. It also marked the beginning of the League of Women Voters as a force in helping to oversee this process, to ease its growing pains, and to make it work.

"When the League was founded, its central task was to legitimize a role for women in political life. Over the years, League members, fully informed and solidly trained, have served as models for the politically motivated woman. Acting in the public interest, they have worked persistently and effectively in pursuit of a broad range of legislative goals; their accomplishments have been almost consistently impressive. In New York State alone, the improvement in our election procedures and the ongoing reform of our judicial process bear witness to the dedication and perseverance of these women. At all levels of government it has made a difference that there is a League of Women Voters.

"If League members see political activism as a way of life and a habit of mind, they are realistic enough to recognize that, for many women, the process of assimilation which began over 50 years ago is still not complete. Even so, it is becoming axiomatic to point out that the options open to women today are broader and less limiting than ever before and, what is even more important, that women in increasing numbers are actually taking advantage of these options. Whether at home, at work, or in public life, women are moving up from the back of the bus, and, in the process, they are acquiring new confidence in their abilities. Formerly content to work quietly behind the scenes, many women now see themselves as movers and shakers, and are stepping forward to take a more central role. In political life, as in other areas, women are demanding more from themselves; they are also demanding more from the activists that compete for their attention. No longer content with mere "busy work," women today are looking for both challenge and recognition, in ways that test their competence and broaden their sphere of influence.

"Against this backdrop, is there still room for a nonpartisan volunteer political organization such as the League of Women Voters? Or has the League, by serving as a training ground for political action, fulfilled its initial purpose? Surprisingly, perhaps, the answer to both of these questions is "yes!" That the League has played, and continues to play, an important role in preparing women to take their place in the political arena is incontestable. It can be assumed that League members, by their willingness to prepare thoroughly, to document facts and to proceed authoritatively, will have done much to pave the way for the eventual acceptance of women as full participants, when it comes.

"But what of those women whose commitment falls short of actually becoming candidates for office, or whose definition of politics allows for a wider range of options? Today, more than ever, the opportunities offered by the League work can enable these women to fill a genuine and pressing public need. The growing cynicism on the part of so many Americans, and the apprehension and distrust which have become an almost inseparable part of our political life, have combined to create a void which will be filled only when people of great conscience come forward to speak and act in the public interest. There will always be room in public life for people, and especially women, who are willing to bring their talents and qualities of character to bear to monitor the activities of their elected officials, and to work for well-defined legislative goals.

"It has been said that political power ought to be reserved for those who can approach it responsibly, and political responsibility is what the League of Women Voters is all about. You can't win if you don't play."

high interest rates.

Select any of our investment programs (we offer several). Because unlike other types of unguarded investor's packages, our programs are federally insured, and our rates are fully guaranteed.

In unguarded investor's packages there are numerous risks to be considered. You have a chance to realize the rewarding returns you want, of course, but there's at least a real chance that you won't. Corporate setbacks, economic losses at any level, and recessive trends all enter into the ever-changing status of your invested funds' potential drawing power.

Rather than chance these risks and uncertainties, you can choose comfortable investments that fit your growing needs.

With our investment programs you know precisely when your money will grow (each day) and how rapid that growth will be (our Savings Certificate rates are guaranteed and insured up to $20,000) . . . Think things through carefully and we think you'll choose the better investment at Sawyer Savings Bank.

Mendelssohn Club Will Sponsor Showcase for Young Artists

The Mendelssohn Glee Club announced today that it is inaugurating a new series of annual fall concerts the first of which is scheduled for December 7 in the J. Watson Bailey School auditorium.

The purpose of the new series is to recognize and encourage musical talent and achievement among area youth at the high school level. Four local high schools will select one student from among those it considers to have exceptional musical ability. The four students will then appear as featured guest artists with the Mendelssohn Club in the fall concerts. Each student guest will receive an award of $25 from the glee club.

The concert is not intended as a competitive event but rather an opportunity for young people with exceptional musical ability and a desire to perform. High schools participating in the first concert of its kind this December are in Kingston, Saugerties, Rhinebeck and Rondout Valley. Guest students will be announced.

The Mendelssohn Club begins rehearsals in preparation for the December concert on Monday Sept. 16. The rehearsal hours are 8 to 10 p.m. in St. John's Episcopal Church on Albany Avenue. Anyone with a basic knowledge of music and a good voice is welcome to join the Mendelssohn group. Voice parts are first tenor, second tenor, baritone, and bass. Contact the club's director, J. Anthony Hummel or any of the officers, Bill Lanier, Dick Uhler, Harrison Cornish, Jack Hill, Ed Sprute for membership details.

Cole - Burlarley Nuptials

Carmella Marie Cole, daughter of Mrs. Teresa Cole of 5 Spruce Street, Kingston, and the late Raymond Cole, exchanged nuptial vows with Michael Lawrence Burlarley, Sunday, August 25, 2 p.m. at the Trinity United Methodist Church 35 Wurts Street, Kingston. The Rev. Thomas R. Smoot, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bridegroom is the foster son of Mr. and Mrs. James Salfi of Accord.

Given in marriage by her brother, Raymond Cole of Rosendale, the bride selected a traditional white cotton lace Victorian style gown designed with high ruffled neckline, puff-topped long sleeves, Empire waist and scalloped hemline. Her Camelot caplet headpiece was enhanced with seed pearls and a bow of organza and held an elbow length ballerina veil. She carried a nosegay of white daisies and baby's breath.

Mrs. Raymond Cole of Rosendale was matron of honor for her sister-in-law. She wore a gown of heather green polyester knit styled with a scoop neckline, Empire waist, puffed sleeves. She carried a nosegay of green and pink daisies with baby's breath. Miss Ramona Cole, sister of the bride was bridesmaid and Miss Pamela Tiano of Long Beach, Calif., served as junior bridesmaid. They wore heather pink gowns, styled identically to the honor attendant's gown, picture hats and carried baskets of pink daisies and baby's breath.

Edward Lennon of Tillson was best man. Louis Padilla of Accord was usher.

After the ceremony a reception was given at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Greco of Glasco.

The bride was graduated from Kingston High School and was employed by Faymo Sports Wear, Pine Grove Avenue, Kingston. Her husband was graduated from Rondout Valley High School and is employed at the V.A.W. in Ellenville.

Mr. and Mrs. Burlarley will reside in Ellenville.

Christian Business And Professional Women Meeting

Kingston's Good Old Days will be the theme for the Kingston-Rhinebeck Christian Business and Professional Women's Council Dinner to be held Sept. 17 at the Holiday Inn, 6:30 p.m. Special feature of the evening will be a varied program about the history of Ulster County presented by the Stockade Committee young people under the direction of Mrs. Fleurette Myers of Woodstock. Period costumes, music and a short film will be used.

Speaker for the evening will be Mrs. Marge Jakes of New Hartford, N.Y., district counselor for Christian Women's Club in that area. Musical selections will be provided by Mrs. Barbara Humphries, soprano.

The Christian Business and Professional Women's Council is an inter-faith group designed especially for the working woman. All area women are invited to attend. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Walter Duspivia of Kingston or Mrs. Helen Christensen of Tillson.

Marriage Vows Are Exchanged in Kingston

The marriage of Miss Jane Veronica Chase, daughter of Mrs. Evelyn Chase, 33 Catskill Avenue, Kingston, and the late Edward Chase, to Jan LeRoy Bell, son of Dr. and Mrs. Clifford Bell of 66 Holiday Lane, Kingston, took place Sunday, August 18, 2 p.m. at St. Joseph's Church. The Rev. Alfred Pizzuto officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Wedding music was played by James Sweeney, organist, and Mrs. Sweeney was soloist.

Given in marriage by her brother, James E. Chase, the bride wore her mother's wedding gown of off-white satin with front panel of green lace. Applied green daisies enhanced the sleeves and collar of the gown. The bride chose an old-fashioned hat covered with rosebuds and French illusion veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink and white roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Mrs. Barbara Spartano of 68 St. James Street, Kingston, as matron of honor wore a green chiffon gown and bolero jacket embroidered at the collar and cuffs. She carried a white wicker parasol with blue green miniature carnations and white daisies. Attendants were Mrs. Cathy Bittner of Lake Katrine and Miss Noreen Conlin of 35 DuPont Street, Kingston. They wore gowns styled identically to the matron of honor's gown in blue and melon with picture hats to match. They carried white wicker parasols with miniature carnations and daisies.

Charles Bell of Maryland was best man. Ushers were William Bittner of Lake Katrine and William Bruce of Lucas Avenue Extension, Kingston.

A reception was given at Capri 400, Port Ewen.

The bride attended St. Ursula Academy and was graduated from Kingston High School. She is employed by Semi Films Technology. Mr. Bell, a graduate of Kingston High School and State University College at Cobleskill, is a veteran of four years service in the United States Navy. He served for one year in Vietnam and two and a half years in Morocco. He is employed by Micronics on Route 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell will reside on Ulster Landing Road.

Elizabeth Post: Doing the Right Thing

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper etiquette to celebrate a 25th anniversary four months in advance? This refers to a club's anniversary. I could understand the advance celebration if it is a wedding anniversary and the family can only get together at that time, but I can't see it for a club. The board claims that it is perfectly all right, but I don't think it is proper. What do you say?

Dear Mrs. Logan: If the board has chosen to have the celebration four months in advance, it surely is proper because either more members can attend then and would prefer to hold it at that time, or it is a better time of the year to enjoy the club's facilities. For example, if the club has a lovely lawn or outdoor dance floor, it would be only sensible to have the party at a time when the weather will permit dining and dancing "al fresco."

There is no rule prohibiting celebrating an anniversary before or after the actual event — as long as there is a reason for doing so.

Dear Mrs. Woods: What a wonderful excuse for a holiday party! Christmas falls on a Wednesday this year, so I would suggest that you have an open house on either December 21 or 22, the weekend before Christmas — which is presumably right after your husband's graduation.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a divorcee planning to remarry. We would like to have an informal reception at my home. But the problem is that we don't want any gifts or money. We just want the people to come and enjoy themselves.

Is there any way we can make this clear on the invitation without being offensive?

Dear Diane: Since it is an informal reception, I assume the invitations will be informal, too. Although it is not correct to put "No gifts, please" on a formal, engraved wedding invitation, you may do so on a personal note or a commercial, fill-in card. To make it a little friendlier, perhaps you could write a little poem or phrase indicating that you want or need nothing except your friends' presence.

Dear Mrs. Post: We went out to dinner recently at a neighbor's house. There was a young man there who, as far as we could tell, was a friend of the couple's daughter. However, he was never introduced to us, so we just sat there and talked all evening without ever finding out who he was. Wasn't this very rude of the host and hostess?

Carla Davis

Dear Mrs. Davis: Obviously your neighbor either forgot to introduce you or assumed you already knew her daughter's friend. When she (or her daughter) did not make the introduction, you should have said to him, "I don't think we've met before. We're the Davises. We live next door." If he had been too shy to come back with his own name, I trust that one of the family would respond to this cue by telling you his name.

She Loses 98 Pounds but—She also Loses Her man

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune.
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am only 29 and could write a book about my life but nobody would believe it.

My mother died when I was eight and I was passed around from relative to relative to raise. Somehow I was smart enough to realize that I had to get a good education in order to take care of myself so I put myself through secretarial school.

I fell for a guy and let him move in with me. (Big mistake number one.) He really used me. It turned out he was on drugs and soon he had a $40-a-day habit which nearly broke me so I got rid of him — which wasn't easy. (Maybe I should mention that I weighed in the neighborhood of 235 at this point.)

Then I met another guy and fell hard for him. We dated for three months and he said if I lost 100 pounds he would marry me — but he was ashamed of me the way I was.

In the last 13 months I lost 98 pounds Abby. Last week he told me he changed his mind. He met someone else and was marrying her! I nearly lost my mind I was so crushed and depressed I went on an eating binge. Thank God it lasted only two days.

Please tell me how to get over this blow Abby. I've even considered suicide.

HEARTBROKEN IN L.A.

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: The L.A. Suicide Prevention Center has an excellent counseling program. Call them. Disappointed as you are you have much to be grateful for. The man who "changed his mind" also changed your life by motivating you to lose nearly 100 pounds. Stick with that diet and go to work on forgetting him. And count your blessings instead of your disappointments.

DEAR ABBY: Recently my husband and I were shopping in a department store. My husband purchased several pair of slacks and I bought a pants suit.

My husband's slacks were a trifle too long so the store made the necessary alterations at no charge.

However I was charged for the alteration on my pants suit. I was told that as a matter of policy the store does not alter women's clothing free of charge. Only men's.

It seems to me that this is unfair. I think there should be equality in the treatment of both sexes. Please print this. Maybe if this appears in your column merchants will see it and do something about it.

UPSET IN BIRMINGHAM

DEAR UPSET: Better not make waves m'am. If you scream too loudly for "equality" they may start charging MEN for alterations.

DEAR ABBY: Just heard you on CBS radio. You advised a lady who wanted to know what to say to someone who asked her a very personal question to say: "If you'll forgive me for not answering I'll forgive you for asking."

That's much too polite Ab. I have a better answer which I have had to use only three times in the last 30 years. Each time I had to force myself to muster up the courage but it completely disarmed the questioner.

I said: "If I thought it was any of your business I'd tell you."

Believe me it works like a charm. When people have the nerve to ask personal questions that offend they deserve this kind of answer.

CHICAGOLAND LISTENER
DEAR LISTENER: You topped me!

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is being married at a large formal church wedding and we are presently planning it. As is the custom, the groom selected the ushers. (There will be six).

We are now informed that we must ask each usher if he wants to bring a date to the wedding, and if he does, we must send her an invitation. That's not all. We are also informed that these girls should be included in all the wedding party festivities — including the rehearsal dinner. Is this right?

NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: No. If an usher is officially engaged, it would be gracious of you to invite his fiancée to the wedding. But it's not necessary for the ushers to bring dates. (They escort the bridesmaids.) (P.S. I am frequently asked if a "single" person who has been invited to a wedding dinner automatically has the privilege of bringing a date. The answer is no — unless there are unusual circumstances.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO BALTIMORE NEWS AMERICAN READER: YOU are paying the rent. YOU are buying the groceries. HE moved in with you and is dating other women while YOU cry yourself to sleep every night and you think HE needs a psychiatrist! Lady he is doing just fine. YOU need one.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to ABBY: Box No. 69706 L.A. Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope please.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren 132 Lasky Dr. Beverly Hills Cal. 90212 for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

AFS Group Plans October Meeting

On Thursday evening August 29 the adult group of the Ontario Chapter of the American Field Service held its first meeting of the 1974-1975 year at the home of Mrs. Gunther Zuehlke.

Miss Hilde Basstanie who is this year's AFS student representative to the United States was introduced to those attending. Miss Basstanie is from Belgium and will be spending the school year in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Davis of Woodstock. She will be a senior at the Ontario Central High School in Boiceville.

Miss Audrey Sahulka of Woodstock is this year's AFS representative to a foreign country. She left this past month for Erlangen Germany where she will live with a participating AFS family for the year. Miss Sahulka had completed her junior year of high school last June and will finish her high school education in Germany.

It was announced that on Friday Oct. 4 at 8:15 p.m. that Miss Basstanie will make a slide presentation in St. Gregory's Church on Route 212 in Woodstock. Also participating will be Miss Karen Baldus of West Hurley who spent the past school year in France as part of the AFS exchange program. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Other topics discussed at the meeting were ideas for various fund raising events and a short term exchange program with Cooperstown New York.

Any person interested in participating in the Ontario Chapter of the AFS is urged to contact the chapter president Mrs. Judy Moses, Black Road Shokan, New York, or Mrs. Sally Steuding, Arnold Drive, West Hurley, or Mrs. Nancy Sahulka, Bluestone Road, Woodstock.

Helpful Hints

Both brown paper bags and transparent plastic bags are efficient for use in flouring small pieces of meat and cut-up poultry.

Cornstarch should always be dissolved in cold, not hot, water and the mixture should be stirred vigorously until it is smooth.

An herb mixture from France, for use with meat and fish, contains thyme, basil, savory, green anise and lavender flowers. If you like to experiment, you might try mixing a similar blend.

Tasty Back to School Snacks

Cake-like bar cookies are ideal for the youngsters as they go back to school. Chances are there will be a few hassles over the cookie jar as Mom and Dad also stock up on energy while enjoying such treats as Walnut Banana Brownies or Walnut Macaroon Drops. Both are chewy items that do not take that long to put together and are perfect for teens to make or for Scout projects or for bake sales to help raise money for school or church trips.

WALNUT BANANA BROWNIES

One-third cup shortening
One package (six ounce) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
One cup sifted all-purpose flour
One-half teaspoon baking powder
One-half teaspoon salt
Two eggs
Three-quarter cup granulated sugar
One teaspoon vanilla
One-half cup mashed banana (2 medium-small bananas)

One cup coarsely chopped California Walnuts
Melt shortening and chocolate together over hot water. Meanwhile resift flour with baking powder and salt; set aside. Beat eggs with sugar and vanilla until light. Add chocolate mixture and beat until well blended. Stir in banana. Add flour mixture, then add three-quarters cup walnuts mixing well. Turn batter into greased 9-inch square pan. Sprinkle with reserved walnuts. Bake at 350 degrees for about 35 minutes until top springs back when touched lightly in center and tooth pick, inserted in center comes out clean and dry. Let stand until cool. Cut into one and one-half by two-inch bars. Makes 24 bar cookies.

WALNUT MACAROON DROPS

Three-quarters cup California walnuts
Three-quarters cup granulated sugar

Three unbeaten egg whites
One-quarter teaspoon salt
One-half teaspoon vanilla
Walnut pieces

Grate walnuts using a (Mouli) grater. Or put one-quarter cup at a time into a blender and blend very fine. Combine with sugar, egg whites and salt. Stir over very low heat using a rubber spatula about ten minutes, until mixture is so thick that a clear path is left for a second or two when spatula is drawn across pan. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Grease a cookie sheet and dust with flour. Drop batter by teaspoonfuls onto pan. Top each with a piece of walnut. Let stand at room temperature for one hour. Bake at 300 degrees for about 25 minutes until golden brown. Remove from cookie sheet to wire racks at once. As soon as cookies are cool, store in tightly covered container. Makes about 20 macaroons.

Walnut banana brownies add nutritional dimension to snacking.

Retail Meat Prices Expected To Hold; Pork Goes on Sale

Post-holiday retail meat prices are expected to hold at current levels according to the Consumer and Market Information Service of the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. However a brief easing of wholesale pork prices has permitted features on some of the retail cuts.

Getting a good play across the state will be whole pork loin roasts from $1.09 to $1.19, loin end from 99 cents to $1.15, rib end 88 cents to $1.19, bacon from 79 cents to $1.29, and sausage, depending on type, from 89 cents to $1.19. Other attractive pork cuts will be spareribs from 89 cents to $1.19, pork loin rib ends at $1.09, and fresh pork shoulder and fresh picnics at 59 cents. Specials in the chop line to look for are loin chops at $1.39, rib chops 99 cents, and center cut chops, fresh from $1.29 to $1.39, smoked $1.05 to $1.29. Also featured in one area will be fesh ham—but half at 99 cents and the shank half at 89 cents.

In the beef line, chuck roasts and steaks will be attractive purchases from 69 cents to $1.19, depending on cut and trim. Some other economical beef purchases will be frankfurters from 79 cents to $1.13, beef-liver from 65 cents to 85 cents, ground beef from 89 cents to $1.29, and round roast from $1.39 to $1.89. In the steak line, look for sirloin steak from $1.60 to $1.70, round steak from $1.49 to $1.75, cube steak from $1.59 to $1.95, and London broil as low as $1.39.

All Ages Read Up On Needlecraft

By JEANNE SCHREIBER

Just as a good cook loves to read cookbooks so enthusiastic needleworkers love to read needlecraft books. Here are some of the newest each covering a specific facet of a fascinating field.

Special for Beginners

If you're not yet caught up in the needlecraft craze this is the book for you. "Beginner's Needlecraft" is the third book by Annette Feldman one of the most talented and capable needlewomen in the field. Her first books, "Knit Purl and Design" and "Crochet and Creative Design" were written for skilled knitters and crocheters. This book is strictly for beginners. It gives the rock-bottom basics for applique, crewel embroidery, crocheting, knitting, rug hooking, macrame, needlepoint, and patchwork. Each technique is fully detailed and sketched. Each offers general instructions and specific projects. In addition Annette offers a history lesson for each needlecraft and suggests that handwork eases the tension of modern living. This is a splendid gift book for a young girl, an excellent basic reference book and a must for anyone taking up some form of needlecraft ("Beginner's Needlecraft" by Annette Feldman, Harper and Row $8.95.)

Needlepoint By Graph

Most needlepointers go through several stages. Beginners buy kits. More advanced workers buy designs from local shops and work out their own colors. Real experts often create their own designs and colors. Those who work from needlepoint books are usually pretty skilled and this is the audience for "The Art of Needlepoint." Author Sylvia Goldman has created 45 geometric needlepoint designs each with a graph to follow. She defines needlepoint as count stitchery—that is following a graph box by box to create a design. She divides the works into easy intermediate and advanced designs, offers a wide range of colors, sizes and styles including Mexican, Oriental, French, Persian, and modern art motifs. The introduction gives basic how-to including the technique of working up the needlepoint design into carpet size. A fine book for an advanced needleworker. ("The Art of Needlepoint" by Sylvia Goldman, Derby Books $12.95)

Church Bazaar Special

Is there a church bazaar in your future? It's sure to be successful if you follow the suggestion and make some of the 100 projects outlined in "Francine Coffey's Celebrity Sewing Bee." Francine Coffey, now fashion director for the Singer Company is well-known through her appearances on the Dinah Shore television show. In her first book this Missouri-born expert mixes sewing information with anecdotes about her background, the stars she has known and worked with, the behind-the-scenes of haute couture workrooms.

The second half of the book gives diagrams and instructions for 100 bazaar projects, divided neatly into a ladies' booth, a men's booth, a children's booth and a Christmas booth. Each is color-coordinated for merchandising impact. Each is packed with saleable ideas-to-sew. Francine also offers 100 tips for a successful bazaar. Whether you're bazaar chairman or a giftstitcher there are ideas and information here for all.

One Fall Afternoon--Listen to a Wedding Tune

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:
A hint I picked up at a bridal shower is a darling one!

The maid of honor busied herself collecting all the ribbons and bows from the discarded wrappings. Taking one of the small decorated paper plates she cut a hole in the middle and pulled all the ribbons through so the bows caught on top.

All the brightly colored bows resembled flowers and by grasping the dangling ribbons the bride had the perfect bouquet for her rehearsal night.

Afterwards she would have a beautiful memory of her shower!

Wendy Mathews

What a sweet hint! And what a thoughtful friend to come up with such an adorable idea.

Dear Heloise:

My husband never had the time or patience to return all those cans and bottles (he uses for shaving, hair grooming, deodorants, etc) to the medicine cabinet each morning after use. The bathroom looked messy, plus the cans left rust spots on the vanity.

A plastic caddy, generally used to carry household cleansers, holds all his things and is stowed in the cabinet under the sink.

It's the best 50 cent investment I ever made. Must be... he suggested I write to you.

ONE PROBLEM SOLVED

Dear Heloise:

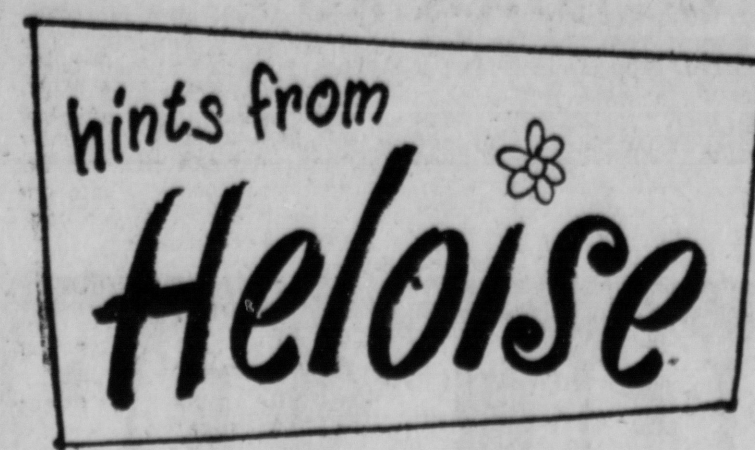

Here is a hit for spreading butter on a hot, boiled ear of corn.

Spread quite a bit of butter on one side of a slice of bread. Lay the ear of corn on the bread, and roll. Even children love doing this.

You kill two birds with one stone, so to speak. Buttered bread and buttered corn. Easy — yummy, too.

HAZEL FANSLER

Dear Heloise:
I read your column every day and of course, am always gleaming another helpful hint or bit if inspiration from it. But this morning it dawned on me that your column serves another purpose, one just as important as the above two:

You give people a place to write to, and share their ingenious little ideas, how frustrating and empty life is without these outlets!!

Maybe no one at home cares that Susy White figured out a better way to clean her gold fish bowl, but she can write to you and know that not only has she shared part of herself, but also know her helpful hit is appreciated.

God bless you.

And you can bet your bottom dollar that her hint also, your sweet letter, angel) was appreciated.

As I say at the end of each column, I can't answer each individual letter because of the tremendous volume, but you can be assured they're read, and if the hint hasn't been published within five years, I try to print as many as possible.

I do appreciate each and everyone of you and love you all dearly. God bless you.

HELOISE

Dear Heloise:

This is how I keep from having difficulty finding food in my upright freezer.

I bought wire bicycle baskets, 12x18x6 (could be any size that fits your needs). They keep packages from falling out of the freezer, and can be removed to find the food you need.

VENA GILBERT

THIS COLUMN is written for you... the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint or a problem write to Heloise in care of The Daily Freeman. Because of the tremendous volume of mail, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will, however, answer your questions in her column whenever possible.

Council Repeals Bike Ordinance

By JON POWERS and CARL GRAHAM

KINGSTON
A second bicycle ordinance for the City of Kingston was introduced at Tuesday's meeting of the Common Council, replacing one passed two months ago that city officials frankly admitted just wouldn't work.

Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward), chairman of the council's Laws and Rules Committee, said Tuesday night that several significant changes and additions will make the new ordinance workable and enforceable.

The new proposed ordinance, read for the first time at Tuesday's meeting, now includes both bicycles and tricycles, contains minor changes in the registration form and procedure, stipulates that violators over 16 years of age can be punished by a $25 fine or 10 days in jail, and provides that parents who do not attend a hearing after their child has been cited a second time may be subject to a fine, a jail term, or both.

The new ordinance also incorporates all bicycle regulations that are included in the City Code and increases the registration fee from 50 cents to one dollar (for two years). Quick said Mayor Francis R. Koenig will set a date for a public hearing on the new ordinance, after it is read two more times at the council's October meeting before final passage.

The council also tabled for 30 days a resolution to increase the Board of Fire Commissioners from four to five members. Actual passage of the resolution fell one vote short. It was then tabled.

The action came after the Council heard Ernest C. Renn Jr., Kingston Professional Fire Fighters Association president, speak in favor of a larger board "to create an odd number of members on the board as all other city boards do." Renn also said the additional appointee named by Mayor Koenig should come from "the most qualified person available, not just volunteers."

Volunteer city firemen from Wicks Hose Company had previously opposed the larger board but demanded that a member of a volunteer company be named if it was increased.

Robert Hinkley, president of the Kingston Volunteer Firemen's Association, said the association has not taken a position on the issue. Hinkley indicated the issue had been discussed but not voted on by the members. Volunteers from Wicks Hose addressed the Council at its August meeting, but, according to Hinkley, spoke only for Wicks Hose.

Several aldermen said they were unhappy with the disagreement between the two firefighter's groups. John E. Finch (D-Fifth Ward) said the law was designed to bring all city commissions on a par with one another "but contention between paid and volunteer firemen makes it doubtful if it should be presented now." He called for a meeting between the two groups to iron out differences and agree on the number of commissioners they felt best.

"I'm not supporting either group," Finch said in voting against the measure. "I just don't think it should be presented at this time."

The tabling motion passed by an 8-5 margin.

The Council approved $142,820 for new equipment to allow the Kingston City Laboratory to make "initial cautious entry" into the computer field and to purchase new automated chemistry equipment, $100,000 will be transferred to the Laboratory's equipment fund, with the balance to come either from 1974 budget surplus or the 1975 budget. The Laboratory reported a $130,000 surplus last year and Mayor Francis R. Koenig in a letter to the Council said this year's anticipated surplus was $50,000.

The Council heard the first reading of a resolution that would create a committee to revise the City Charter. The committee would have 15 members appointed by the mayor to study the entire charter and suggest changes. The Council approved $2,100 of services in kind for its 17 per cent share of the cost, with the State Office of Planning Services also contributing $10,000.

Also approved was a new pay scale for employees of the Kingston Housing Authority, Council Rules Committee. The first approval was needed although from Floyd H. Vogt Inc., asks no city funds are involved. The new salary ranges represent a change from RRR to 0-2 new salary ranges represent a change from RRR to 0-2 new salary ranges represent a change from RRR to 0-2

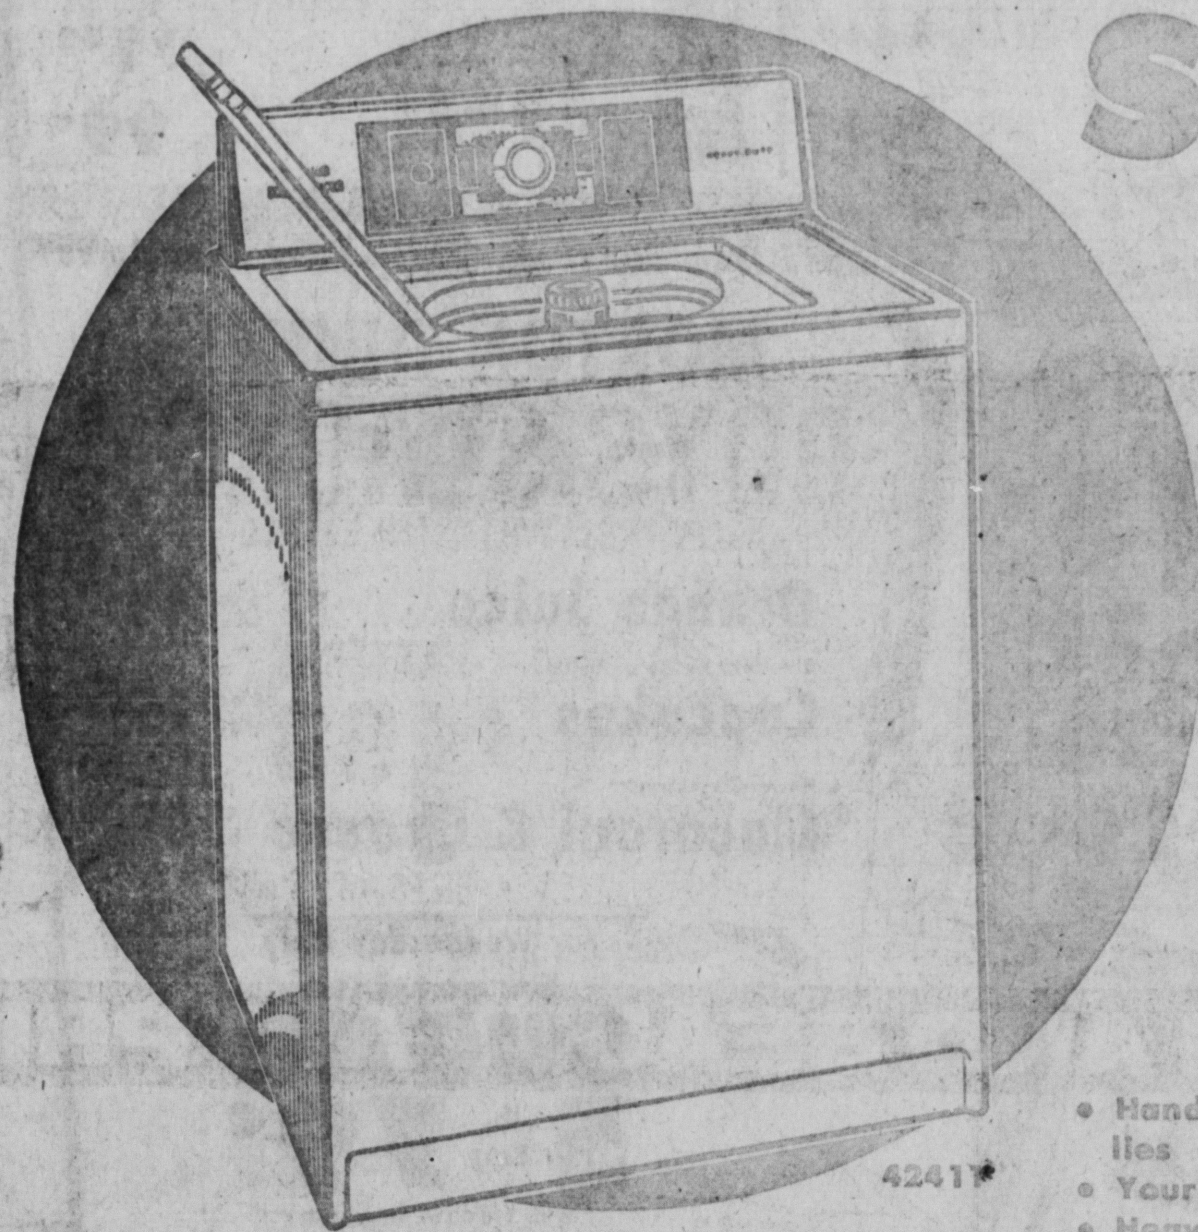

The now-infamous road strip, which has torn up sections of Broadway for repaving and 1.3-acre plot in the Pettit Ave. is now readied for a rendezvous with Albany Avenue, was the subject of some criticism from change would increase traffic, Alderman Finch Tuesday night, overtax streets, endanger child He expressed concern that the dren in the area and put an excess "monster" would damage or destroy amount of people in a kill many of the trees along Albany Avenue, and asked that a family homes be substituted. The mayor has considered legislation against organizations soliciting funds from drivers at intersections. He said shielding, but I'd rather not see he was not opposed to soliciting, the stripper on Albany Avenue but said the practice of doing it at all," said Finch. in moving traffic was dangerous.

Indian Takeover... Some Mixed Emotions

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee Yacht Club. "We wanted to highlight the lack of facilities in our area." Indians who captured Milwaukee's old U.S. Coast Guard station three years ago still stubbornly hold their enclave in a fashionable neighborhood on the Lake Michigan shoreline. But they have mixed emotions about the take-over. "It's been a moral victory; that doesn't mean anything as far as what it is doing for the community," said Reynold Denny, now a youth program director for the city's Indian Urban Affairs Council. "It was never our idea to keep it," Denny said of the $200,000 facility between county parklands and the exclusive never seriously pressured the Indians to leave, and the Bureau of Indian Affairs said it is attempting to gain control of the land. The Indians established on the base the Indian Community School, which had an enrollment of 76 — from preschoolers through children of high school age — during the last academic year. Most are bused to the school from northwest Milwaukee, where most of the city's Indians live. The school has been operated with the aid of various federal grants, including $145,000 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The M16 Controversy

Service Contention Refuted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven years after battlefield complaints, a civilian advisory committee has blamed Vietnam-era Pentagon officials for ordering production of the M16 rifle "in spite of known deficiencies."

This, in effect, refuted Army and Marine contentions in 1967 that the M16 jammed in combat principally because rifle-men were not maintaining their weapons properly.

"Major production decisions were made, particularly in the 1964-1965 era, in spite of known deficiencies in the M16 which had previously been identified in testing," the Army's Materiel Acquisition Review Committee said in a new report.

The report suggested a major cause of difficulties was a "need for a very large quantity in a very short time." The advisory committee, drawn from industry, the universities, consulting firms and various government agencies, named no decision makers in its criticism.

However, then-Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara told the House defense appropriations subcommittee in January 1966 that, after returning from Vietnam somewhat earlier, "I put on order a large quantity of M16s because I thought they would prove effective and that they would be needed."

McNamara indicated he had had to overcome military opposition to the M16 saying, "I personally have been trying to introduce (it) into the military services of this country for three years."

The Army awarded its first contract for 104,000 of the light weight rifles in 1963. His 1966 testimony also implied that U.S. generals fell in line during McNamara's Vietnam trip. "All the commanders suddenly decided they wanted larger quantities," McNamara said.

The M16 problems were cured in time, but it took changes in design and ammunition powder.

The M16 case was analyzed by the civilian advisory committee as part of its study of the Army's process of developing, testing and producing weapons and other materiel. Its report was made public last week.

"The M16 problems were not so much a failure of testing but rather a slowness of the system to correct deficiencies identified by testing," the committee said. It cited what it called numerous examples of a slow response, saying:

"A primer compound which contributed to fouling was deleted three years after identification of the problem. Other ammunition problems continued to exist at least five years after identification.

Looking at the present Army test setup, the committee said changes made recently by the Army "should reduce the chances that many of the problems associated with the M16 rifle development program would be repeated."

CHEMICAL BANK HUDSON VALLEY

Chemical Bank Opens Sept. 9

ULSTER AVENUE MALL. A supermarket sweepstakes, free checking accounts and free safe deposit boxes will highlight the grand opening celebration of Chemical Bank Hudson Valley's first Ulster County office, Route 9W at Neighborhood Road, Kingston.

The new office is scheduled to open at 9 a.m. Monday, Sept. 9. The opening celebration will run until Oct. 31.

Grand prize in the sweepstakes is a five-minute shopping spree at Waldbaum's. According to John Ledwith, manager of the new Chemical office, the sweepstakes winner will take home up to $300 worth of meat and groceries. Entry blanks are available at the bank.

Ledwith said the bank is also giving away a free checking account and a free safe deposit box to every customer who applies for and receives a Chemical No-Bounce Privilege Checking account or a Chemical Master Charge card.

Special opening hours are 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Thursday with drive-in window hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.; 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5:30 to 7 p.m. Friday with drive-in window hours from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 14, 21 and 28.

Business Newsmakers

Dr. Steven P. Stern has announced the opening of his practice of Dentistry for children at 130 North Front Street.

Dr. Stern, a native of New Jersey, received his B.A. degree that Bovee will continue to serve as manager of the branch bank. He joined Marine Midland in 1968 as a management trainee and later that year moved to the commercial note department as a teller. In 1970, he was appointed supervisor of the commercial credit and commercial note department at the main office in Poughkeepsie. He was transferred to the branch management training program in 1973 and was made manager of the Kingston office in February this year.

Bovee is a native of Syracuse, where he graduated from Syracuse Central High School. He attended Syracuse University and Dutchess Community College, and graduated from the University of Maryland receiving a B.A. degree in Economics. Bovee has been active in the American Institute of Banking educational system and is a graduate of the Marine Midland Bank Sales Institute.

He is treasurer of the Mammoth Mall Merchants Association Kingston and also serves on that organization's Board of Directors. He is a member of the Public Relations Committee of the Dutchess County Council of Boy Scouts and a member of the Ulster Credit Management Association.

DR. STEVEN STERN

at Rutgers University in 1967. He graduated from Washington University School of Dentistry in 1971. After Dental school, Dr. Stern completed an internship at the Eastman Dental Center in Rochester. Following the internship he completed a two-year residency in Pedodontics at the same institution and received his Certificate of Specialization last June.

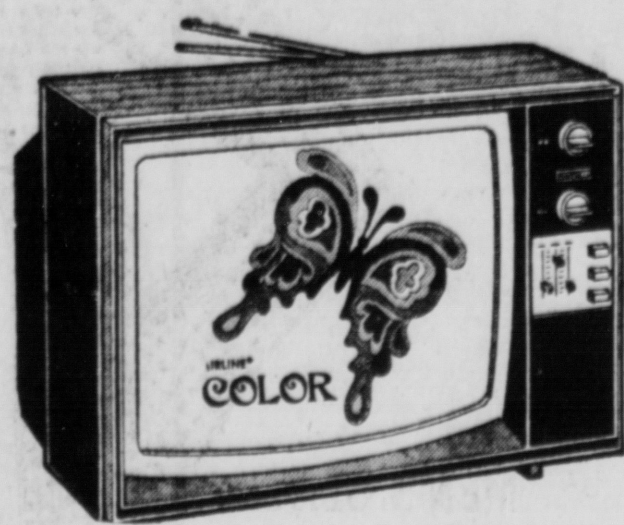

Dr. Stern resides in Kingston with his wife, Eileen, and their three children Jeffrey, age 3, Stacey, age 1½, and Lauren, age 3 months.

Robert Bovee, manager of the Kingston office of Marine Midland Bank of Southeastern New York, N.A., located in the Mammoth Mall shopping complex, has been promoted to assistant cashier.

Announcement of Bovee's promotion was made known by Peter Dudan, chairman of the board and president, who said

The open houses will be held by the Ridge Homes dealers in this area. Each model is being built for a local home buyer. The homes on display and their locations are: three-bedroom ranch models, the Allenwood, on Schreiber Lane, New Paltz, and the Greenwood, on Brandybrook Road, Wawarsing. The Ridge dealers in this area are John Rinaldo, of Route 9W, Saugerties; Gregory Fallon, of Route 209, Wawarsing and John Jeanette, Routes 44 and 55, Clintondale.

Ron. National Lincoln Sponsor

WOODSTOCK in September, is entitled Mrs. Lincoln's Husband. In this episode, Lincoln's young son Sandburg's Lincoln, presented by Rondout National Bank, will the President and Mary Todd premiere in color on the NBC Lincoln must respond to accusations which affect their lives, both personally and politically, they must also accept the loss when their young son dies. The warm, personal family side of Lincoln is revealed in this moving lead-off story.

Hal Holbrook plays the title role in this series of television specials based on Carl Sandburg's Pulitzer Prize winning six-volume biography of Abraham Lincoln. Keyed to America's Bicentennial celebration, three of the six specials will be presented by the Rondout National Bank, as a member of the American Bankers Association (ABA) during the 1974-75 season. The remaining three programs will be televised during the 1975-76 season.

The much-honored Holbrook, who won Broadway's Tony Award for his highly acclaimed impersonation of Mark Twain and an "Actor of the Year" Emmy Award for his starring role in Pueblo, takes on the part of Lincoln in full make-up. Playing opposite Holbrook as Mary Todd Lincoln is the renowned dramatic actress, Sada Thompson. Her performance as the four different ladies in "Twigs" brought her the Tony Award. She had already received an Obie Award for "Best Performance for her role in The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigolds."

The television specials will concentrate on six different aspects of the "man" Lincoln. "There will not be any debates or speeches," director-producer George Schaefer, himself a six-time Emmy winner, said. "We're just trying to take him out of the marble image and give him some flesh and blood."

The premiere program, to be broadcast on the first Friday scheduled for Dec. 29, will show the role of banks in the growth and development of communities and how people can better use their bank. In addition to the Lincoln series, Rondout National Bank, through its affiliation with the ABA, is again co-sponsoring this season's NFL football games on NBC beginning in October. The NFL games will conclude with the championship playoff scheduled for Dec. 29.

HISTORICAL DRAMA — Actors portray British soldier during the Revolutionary War in an outdoor historical drama put on during the summer at this tiny Quaker community of Snow Camp, N. C. The drama portrays events in the life of a Quaker settler caught up in the war and is called "Sword of Peace."

Sword of Peace...A Quaker Drama

SNOW CAMP, N.C. (UPI) — Allen's Store is the only landmark visible from the paved but unmarked country road that rolls through this little Quaker community in the Appalachian foothills.

You can gas up, buy a loaf of bread, a can of vienna sausage, a soft drink (but no beer) or even get snow tires—unless, of course, you happened to sneeze and passed through without seeing the place at all.

Men folks gather at Allen's Store and talk politics, or just sit and wait for the sun to go down.

But this year, the locals would have been proud if you had dropped in to see "Sword of Peace," Snow Camp's fledgling historical drama on the Revolutionary War.

The drama began its inaugural season on the Fourth of July, and it ended this weekend.

Like drama in many American communities, it was an artistic success. Unlike many, the Snow Camp outdoor drama's first season was also a financial success.

Based on the conflicts of conscience facing the peaceful Quaker settlers during the turbulent days of the Revolutionary War, the drama was more than five years in the planning.

"We had every kind of supper you can imagine," said James Wilson, a tractor salesman, recounting the fund-raising efforts that eventually netted the Snow Camp Historical Drama Society $35,000, enough to open the season.

Wilson and other local men worked by flashlight at night, clearing a rocky, tree-covered hillside for an 850-seat amphitheater, which was built by high school carpentry students.

"We didn't know what we were doing," Wilson said. "We did everything backward, but somehow it came out right, and that's what makes it unique and beautiful."

Wilson, a teetotaler, was recruited to play a role as a hilarious drunk by director Sandy Moffett, a University of North Carolina graduate now teaching at Grinnell College in Iowa.

The show ran three nights a week. A crew of semi-professionals, mostly from Grinnell, worked with the predominantly local supporting cast. Most of them stayed at Holt House, a roomy wood-frame, farmhouse dormitory.

The production had its share of problems. The toilets wouldn't work at first. An airline shipping accident delayed a shipment of spotlights until after the dress rehearsal.

Bacteria-contaminated water wiped out portions of the Holt House cast for several days running.

And, early in the summer, community opinion threatened to turn against the drama when a non-local cast member smoked marijuana with a small group of local youths.

Wilson soothed the fears of both sides, especially parents upset at outside influences, when the incident became an issue.

The script, written by University of North Carolina professor William Hardy, is based on the life of Simon Dixon, the area's first settler.

Dixon came from Lancaster, Pa., in 1749 and built a mill on Cane Creek, which runs across the road from the amphitheater.

The dilemma that confronted Dixon as a Quaker caught in the currents of revolution provides the drama of the story, subtitled, "Men of peace—a time of war."

Wilson is already looking past the drama, planning other historical projects with an eye on 1976, the bicentennial year. He hopes the society can restore two houses, one over 200 years old and the other over great coordination!

Vijay Enjoying Role of Underdog

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Vijay Amritraj, the affable Indian with a lethal racket, says he's at his best when he's considered the underdog.

"I always play better against a guy who is expected to beat me," he said after his 6-3, 6-3, 6-4 triumph Tuesday over Marty Riessen, the No. 11 seed.

But Vijay fears his magic carpet might be grounded by Ken Rosewall, his quarter-final opponent in the $271,720 U.S. Open Tennis Championship.

"I fear Rosewall most, and then Connors," said the lanky Amritraj. "Newcombe? He has a big serve and volley but he doesn't move you around so much. With Rosewall and Connors, you're lucky to return their serves."

Vijay recalled that he had never beaten the scrappy little Rosewall, who weighs only slightly less than Amritraj but stands only 5-foot-6 to Amritraj's 6-3.

He lost to him at Wimbledon in the second round 6-2, 5-7, 9-8, 6-1 and at Forest Hills last year in the quarters 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

"His anticipation is unbelievable. He doesn't move fast. But he is alert and his backhand and forehand are so strong."

Jimmy Connors, the No. 1 seed who beat Rosewall for the Wimbledon crown, sought a quarter-final berth today against Jan Kodes.

John Newcombe, the defending champion and No. 2 seed, advanced Tuesday, as did Arthur Ashe.

Connors' fiancée, Chris Evert, who shared the winner's circle at Wimbledon with him, faced Lesley Hunt of Australia today in a bid for the semi-finals. But Miss Hunt, seeded eighth, thinks she just might have the combination to beat Chris, the No. 1 seed. After all, she was within two points of upsetting her in the second round of Wimbledon.

"It just takes staying in there," said the 24-year-old Miss Hunt. "Chris is like a brick wall. Every single point comes back. You just have to stay with her all the way through and not get frustrated."

In one of the most evenly matched women's quarter-finals, former Wimbledon champion Evonne Goolagong met Kerry Melville in an all-Australian test. Miss Goolagong is seeded fifth and Miss Melville fourth.

In one of the oldest acts of the modern tennis era, Billie Jean King played her double partner, Rosemary Casals. Their previous meetings are too numerous to mention, but the number of times Rosie has won could be counted on one hand with fingers to spare.

Oscar Embarks On New Career

NEW YORK (UPI) — Oscar Robertson, once described as "the sculptor's answer to the perfect basketball player," retired as an active competitor Tuesday after 14 seasons during which he established a reputation as the greatest backcourt performer in National Basketball Association history.

The 37-year-old Robertson, who played his first 10 seasons with the Cincinnati Royals and the last four with the Milwaukee Bucks, quit to sign a lucrative contract as a sportscaster with CBS Television. "The Big O," as he was aptly nicknamed, will serve as a color commentator for CBS-TV's NBA Game of the Week. He will begin his new job on Sunday, Oct. 27, when Bill Walton makes his debut as a professional for Portland.

Robertson's sudden decision to call it quits came after he had failed to negotiate a "suitable" contract with the Bucks. Oscar sought his standard multi-year contract with Milwaukee, but the Bucks rejected it because of the "no-cut, no-trade" clause upon which Robertson insisted.

The Spirits of St. Louis of the American Basketball Association had expressed interest in the aging superstar, but after weighing theirs and a few offers from other clubs, he decided to accept the CBS multi-year contract.

"I talked with my attorney and we felt there wasn't anything that inviting," said Robertson. "Actually, I had contemplated retiring for quite a while. Fourteen years is a long time to be playing. I think my family is very happy about it. I know my wife is. But they left the decision entirely up to me."

"Hopefully this new job with CBS will be my job of the future. I would like to think I've never done anything for networks, but I have done some color commentary of high school and college games on a local level in Cincinnati. So, it's not going to be a complete shock."

In his 14 seasons in the NBA, Robertson set standards for excellence that will be difficult to duplicate. A three-time college Player of the Year at the University of Cincinnati, Robertson was a sensation his very first year in the NBA (1960-61), averaging 30.5 points per game and winning Rookie of the Year honors.

Over the next nine seasons, the 6-foot-5 guard emerged as the most complete player in the league, averaging better than 30 points per game and perennially leading the league in assists. His best season was 1963-64 when he averaged 31.4 points and 10.9 assists to gain the NBA's Most Valuable Player honors.

A master ballhandler who perfected a back-stepping maneuver to within 15-feet of the basket and a deadly one-handed turn-around jump shot over usually shorter opponents, Robertson never failed to bring plaudits from the students of the game. Kids in schoolyards across the country imitated his beautiful "floating layups."

Eddie Donovan, the Buffalo Braves' general manager, was once looking at films of Oscar's play while still a coach for the Knicks and remarked, "You look at the films and you see Oscar has done this, and this, then you re-run 'em again 20 minutes later and you find 10 things you didn't see the first time. He controls the game and everything in it."

Perhaps Dick Barnett, the former star guard of the Knicks and Los Angeles Lakers, described the Big O's talents best.

"You give him 15 feet, he wants 10," said Barnett. "You give him 10, he wants five. You give him five, he wants a layup, baby." Robertson usually got what he wanted.

The one thing that eluded Robertson during his years with Cincinnati, however, was a championship. That finally came when he was traded to the Bucks at the end of the 1969-70 season. With Robertson's floor leadership and the brilliant play at center of Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the Bucks won their first NBA title by defeating Baltimore in four straight in the playoff finals.

Another Great Leaves Bay Area

OAKLAND (UPI) — One by one, the Bay Area loses its athletic greats.

In recent years, Willie Mays and Willie McCovey were traded, John Brodie retired under pressure, and now Nate Thurmond is gone.

The Warriors Tuesday swapped the great center to Chicago of the NBA for Clifford Ray, a first round draft pick in 1975 and an undisclosed amount of cash.

The 6-foot-11, 33-year-old Thurmond was a first round draft choice in 1963 out of Bowling Green and his emergence two years later permitted the Warriors to trade Wilt Chamberlain to Philadelphia.

In 11 seasons for the Warriors, Thurmond scored 13,191 points and pulled down 12,701 rebounds. He is considered especially tough on defense.

Ray, 6-foot-9 and 25 years old, was ninth in rebounding last season, hit .511 of his shots and averaged nine points per game.

Warriors General Manager Richard Vertlieb indicated that Thurmond's age was a key factor in the trade. He said "we are acquiring an outstanding young performer who has been an integral part of Chicago's success the past three seasons and who has his best seasons before him."

"In return we gave up one of the game's great players who is nearing the end of his career."

Vertlieb admitted that the "financial aspects of the trade also made it attractive" since the Warriors have tried to balance the hefty salaries of Thurmond and Rick Barry in recent years while only drawing some 4,500 customers per game.

A delighted Chicago Coach Dick Motta predicted his team would win the 1975 NBA championship.

Thomas Returns To Redskins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — who led Dallas rushers in 1970 Washington Redskin Coach and 1971, his first two pro seasons.

George Allen just can't stop dreaming about the Super Bowl victory that has eluded him so far during his head coaching career.

And from his actions, he apparently can't stop dreaming about the 95 yards Duane Thomas gained for Dallas in a 24-3 Super Bowl VI victory over Miami and his brilliant running in two seasons with the Cowboys—no matter how obstreperous the talented running back might be.

Allen, no doubt dreaming of a backfield with both Thomas and Larry Brown at their peak, announced Tuesday to no one's real surprise he has taken Thomas back on his team despite his threats against backfield coach Charlie Waller.

Before announcing his decision Allen told reporters, "I usually base every decision on the axiom we started in 1971, 'the future is now.' My only thinking is what is good for the Redskins and will it help us win."

Only a week ago Allen put Thomas on waivers for cursing Waller, shoving, grabbing and challenging him to a fight.

"My first consideration was for the team," Allen said, making it clear it was the championship prospects he was concerned with, not individual players. "Duane can help us win now. Coach Charlie Waller was receptive to bringing Duane back. Charlie was for whatever I decided."

"The fact that Duane wanted to return was the main factor. He said he was sorry and wanted to be forgiven. He wants to play for the Redskins and does not want to play for any other team. He has made so much progress I want to give him a second chance. I hope we can all work together for a championship."

Thomas is probably better known for his troublesome antics than as the running back

Thomas had "personal problems," and despite his brilliant running, Tom Landry tried to swap him to New England and after Thomas spoiled that deal by walking out of the Patriot training camp, dealt him to San Diego.

More of those personal problems, ranging from a marijuana arrest to a continuing inability to get along with coaches and players, cropped up. Thomas never played for the Chargers, sitting out the 1972 season.

Allen, always proud of his ability to work with difficult players, acquired Thomas by giving the Chargers his No. 1 1975 draft pick and his second choice the next year.

The day before taking Thomas back into the fold Allen talked about some of the factors involved.

"One, is he going to do the same thing again. Two, how will the team react? Three, how will my coaching staff react, especially Charlie Waller. Four, we probably can't get what he's worth in a trade because of the circumstances."

When Allen got down to making his decision, "The future is now" philosophy became more important than any problems a problem football player could cause.

Rams Sign Curry

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bill Curry, president of the striking NFL Players Association, Tuesday was signed as a free agent by the Los Angeles Rams.

Curry, a 31-year-old center, was cut by the Houston Oilers last week and passed over by the other 24 NFL teams. The 9-year NFL veteran, has not played since last Oct. 7, when he cracked a bone in his knee in a game against the Rams.

"I wouldn't be here if I didn't think I could play football for the Rams," said Curry. "I'd say I'm close to 100 per cent after working out hard and regularly for the last two months—straight through the labor negotiation period."

Curry was cut immediately after the players went back to work, but he believes, "It would be immature if I thought (Oilers' coach) Sam Gillman put me on waivers because of the strike. He has three centers there. I'm just glad to be in Los Angeles."

Curry was a two-time All-Pro center at Baltimore under owner Carroll Rosenbloom, who now owns the Rams. Rosenbloom said he invited Curry here to take a physical exam Tuesday and signed him afterwards.

"We've had some concerns at center," Rosenbloom said, referring to the knee injury to Ram regular Ken Iman. Iman's knee was operated on during the offseason. "With Curry, we're solid at center now."

Veteran John Schmitt Dealt to Green Bay

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — players strike, has a bad back. John Schmitt, one of the few remaining ties to the New York Jets' 1968 Super Bowl championship, is leaving the club after 10 years.

Schmitt, the Jets' starting center for the past eight seasons, was traded to the Green Bay Packers Tuesday for a draft choice.

"I felt very bitter when I first heard of it," said Schmitt, a native of nearby Central Islip, N.Y., who joined the Jets in 1964 as a free agent out of Hofstra. "But once I talked to the people in Green Bay and found out the situation, I felt a lot better about the trade. They're looking for someone with experience and I think I have that experience."

The "situation" at Green Bay involve veteran center Ken Bowman, the Packer player representative. The Packers are looking for a bigger man at the position and claim Bowman, who missed much practice time because of contract negotiations during the recent NFL title.

Schmitt, who has played in remaining ties to the New York Jets' 1968 Super Bowl championship, is leaving the club after 10 years.

"I'm not happy that I was traded but the Packers do need a center and at least I'll get a shot at the job. Maybe it's a shot to the better. If I can go out there and do a good job, maybe they won't be in a hurry to find young people to play."

Schmitt, 31, lost his job when the Jets obtained Wayne Mulligan, 27, from Chicago last week. Mulligan had played for new coach Charley Winster when Winster was head coach at St. Louis. Also available last season was rookie Bill Wyman, the All-America from Texas, who Warren Koegel, obtained from Oakland last season.

Schmitt's departure leaves only six players—Joe Namath, Winston Hill, Emerson Boozer, Randy Rasmussen, Ralph Baker and Al Atkinson—from the club that defeated Baltimore in January, 1969, for the NFL title.

Bob Johnson Isn't Going to Make All-America

ARMY CAPTAIN Bob Johnson (shown here in 1973 photo) will never make All-America this year. He can't because although he is the captain of Army's football team he will be unable to play. He is suffering from cancer. (UPI)

Mario Andretti Talks About California '500'

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — In three years as a member of Parnelli Jones' Viceroy team, Mario Andretti has won just one U.S. Auto Club championship car race.

He went only two laps in the Indianapolis 500 this year and only four laps at Indy in 1974. But the versatile little Italian immigrant has captured two Formula 5000 races and three USAC dirt track events this year. In Sunday's California Grand Prix Formula 5000 at Ontario, Calif., he finished second to England's Brian Redman.

So how does he explain it? Racing luck, perhaps. "No," Andretti said. "I don't believe there's any such thing as racing luck. I think some drivers use that as a crutch. It's an easy thing to do. Well, I won't use it as an alibi. You make your own luck. When you have a good, healthy machine, you do well. Preparation is luck."

With USAC national driving championships in 1965, 1966 and 1969 behind him, Andretti admitted being "frustrated as hell" by his failure to win on the USAC championship car

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Bob Johnson isn't going to make All-America this year.

He had a shot at it, most people probably would call it only a long shot, and then something happened, something over which he had no control.

That's the jumping ahead of the story, so let's backtrack a minute.

Bob Johnson is a ruggedly constructed, good-looking young man of 22 from Memphis who played defensive end so well for frequently-beaten Army the past two years, that he stuck out the same way All-Pro Elvin Bethea does with the last-place Houston Oilers.

The 6-foot-2, 210-pound Johnson did such a fine job and won the regard of his fellow teammates to such a degree, they got together last Fall and named him captain of this year's football team.

Bob Johnson thus became the first black Cadet ever to achieve such a distinction in the entire football history of West Point. He was so proud, he couldn't wait to tell his mother, Mrs. Mary Anne Johnson, whom he helps support back in Memphis. She cannot work due to a thyroid and blood pressure condition.

During spring drills, last April, Johnson, also a member of Army's wrestling team, underwent a routine physical exam along with all the other football players. Among other things, X-rays were taken.

Dr. Tom Travis, the team physician, studied the pictures and noticed a jagged edge on one of the bones in Johnson's right arm.

"I'll be honest with you," he said to Johnson. "I see something in the X-rays, and it might not be anything, but there is the possibility it could be a form of cancer. We'll keep watching it closely."

Last June Johnson was sent to Walter Reed Hospital in Washington and he went there again this past week. Bone scans were done on him and seven different type X-rays were taken.

Then they told the husky Tennessee senior what he had suspected.

He had cancer in the upper portion of his arm and it was spreading to his shoulder.

Bob Johnson returned to West Point but didn't get the proper opportunity to speak with his fellow Cadets until last Thursday. That chance finally came during an informal get-together in one of the company theaters. A number of the team's football players were present.

When Johnson began to speak, he didn't take long getting to the point.

"For the benefit of all the freshmen, I'm Bob Johnson, captain of the football team, and a lot of people don't understand what happened," he said. "I'd like to let everybody here know what happened and why I can't play."

Johnson explained how team captains are elected the year previously, then said:

"I have a tumor in my right arm."

He said the required radiation treatment made the bone brittle, and that a sharp blow, such as he might experience if he continued playing football, could possibly snap the bone.

"I've done a great deal of thinking about this," he went on. "and one of the most difficult things for me to do was come back and face you guys."

Bob Johnson swallowed hard. "The coach doesn't know anything about me speaking to all of you here," he went on. "I won't be able to play now. I don't know if you want to elect another captain. Whatever you do will be perfectly fine with me."

Bob Simons, a running back from Brooklyn, and a senior, was on his feet in a flash. He looked straight at Johnson and said:

"I've played with you ever since prep school and I think I speak for the whole crowd. We elected you captain; we don't want anybody else."

Bob Johnson discovered he will also go out to mid-field before the start of the game and make the call when the referee flips the coin. He should, he's the team captain. Somebody asked Bob Johnson if he's frightened by what the doctors have told him about his team, but he won't play. He himself.

He will suit up each Saturday this Fall and stay with the team, but he won't play. He himself.

He will suit up each Saturday this Fall and stay with the team, but he won't play. He himself.

"No, sir," he said. "What is that saying—there is nothing to fear but fear itself." Bob Johnson isn't going to make All-America this year. That doesn't really matter because he's All-courage and All right with a pair of capital 'A's."

Intrepid Was All Alone...

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Skipper Gerry Driscoll stood quietly on the rain-covered pier Tuesday reflecting on early September disappointment and his hopes for 1977 as the wind whistled through canvas-covered Intrepid.

"I'm disappointed. We wanted to be chosen. But I wouldn't change places with anybody," the San Diego, Calif. boatyard owner said on the heels of Courageous' selection as the 22nd America's Cup defender.

For the first time, Intrepid, wooden hulled old lady among the 12-meter yachts, was alone. Her dock, isolated from others housing twelve on the waterfront, was minus the usual activity.

The 1967 and 1970 defender appeared to have the edge in heavy winds in summer-long trial racing with Courageous, the new aluminum boat, but under new skipper Ted Hood, Courageous put it all together Monday for a decisive 1:47 win in 20-25 knot winds.

It apparently took all summer for her to catch up to Intrepid's performance peak. The older boat was launched four months ahead, after extensive redesign, and built up valuable practice time.

"We still think we're faster. We hope to be back in three years because we're pretty confident that the boat can do it," Driscoll said.

Eustace "Sunny" Vynne,

Intrepid-West Syndicate manager, went one step further. He said the boat, floated this year through a nickel, dime and dollar fund-raising effort, "will be back in 1977" seeking an unprecedented and elusive third cup title.

"We are stuck with America's Cup fever and would like to be back again," Vynne said. The actual decision to return will rest with the Seattle Sailing Foundation, the parent organization.

If Intrepid returns in three years, she might be the only wooden contender on the water if the trend towards aluminum catches on.

For the Courageous team, Tuesday was a day off as the sleek aluminum yacht was hauled for measurement by an international committee and some bottom refurbishing.

She goes back in the water by Thursday with at least two days of intense practice scheduled against Intrepid to evaluate sails and crew work.

The Intrepid team volunteered to do anything it could to help the American effort after the selection committee made its decision.

"The competition was excellent and Courageous and Intrepid so beautifully matched up down to the last day," Vynne said. "It means the winner will be a great deal stronger because of the way we pushed each other."

Australia's Southern Cross, the foreign challenger, spent the day in the Atlantic practicing against trial horse Gretel II for the best of seven series with Courageous that begins Sept. 10.

Brian Leary, manager of the Aussie effort, said "We believe we face a most formidable task to defeat Courageous due to the intense level of competition between the two U.S. contenders."

The 12-meter sloops no longer in cup competition—Intrepid, Mariner, Valiant, France and Gretel II—have been invited to a fleet race over the 24.3 mile America's Cup course Saturday. It is sponsored by the Ida Lewis Yacht Club.

Stock Drag Race Champ Is Anxious for Repeat

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Bob Glidden, who was runner-up in Orange, Calif., driving a 1973 his first pro stock drag race Mustang.

Prudhomme, defending funny car champion from Granada Hills, Calif., drove a 1974 Barracuda to victory over 19-year-old Billy Meyer of Waco, Tex.

Prudhomme, a three-time national champion in a 1974 Mustang, Prudhomme's time was 6.33 seconds and twice-winner in funny cars, for a speed of 233.32 m.p.h.

Glidden and Prudhomme shared the spotlight with unheralded Marvin Graham of Oklahoma City, Okla., who won his National Hot Rod Association's first national championship by taking the top fuel elimination.

Graham won about $21,000 of the total $315,000 purse by beating nearby Greenwood, piling another surprise finalist, R. J. 1973 Pinto to victory in Gaines Markley of Federal the pro stock division with a Way, Wash. The winning time of 9.01 seconds and a was 6.17 seconds for a top speed of 151.26 miles per hour, speed of 232.55 m.p.h.

Joe Owens Speaker For BRL

KINGSTON
Joe Owens, athletic director and former baseball coach at New Paltz State University, will be the principal speaker at the 24th annual Babe Ruth League Awards banquet Sept. 28 at 7 p.m. at the Walnut Grove.

Owen was the high school mentor of current Yankee pitching ace Pat Dobson at Lancaster High in the Buffalo area. He coached baseball at SU for many years before assuming the post of AD.

The banquet honors the league and division champion teams, Turk Construction and Kingston Volunteer Firemen, respectively; the 13-Year-Old All-Star District Champions, the National Division, as well as the 14-15 Year-Old All-Star teams from both divisions and the 13-year-old All-Stars of the American Division, all of whom competed in District Tournament at Beacon in July.

Also receiving special recognition are 12 outstanding sportsmen, the leading batters and pitchers in each division and the graduating 15-year-olds. The 1974-75 officers will be installed. They are: Robert G. Dawkins, re-elected president; William T. Sinsabaugh, first vice president; Walter DeBrosky, second vice president; George Grieco, secretary; Richard DeLorenzo, re-elected treasurer; and Thomas Kearney, Player Agent. Tickets may be purchased from any of the 12 league managers, officers or banquet chairman, Larry Decker, before Sept. 13.

Archers Shoot At Marbletown

STONE RIDGE
Kingston Archers plan a deer shoot at the Marbletown Rod and Gun Club Sunday, Sept. 8 at 9 a.m. Targets as well as hunting equipment is welcome with the only exception being no Brodhead points.

The range will be a walk through, with all deer targets, set at various ranges. Since this is a fun shoot, it is the ideal time for newcomers to bow hunting to get out and test their shooting equipment.

All shooters will be required to pay a registration fee. Bow hunting season has been extended this year and will now open on Oct. 15. For further information concerning the deer shoot, contact Ethan Allen, New Salem Road, New Salem.

Berardi His Own Hurler

Team captain Lt. John J. Berardi has designated himself as pitcher for the Kingston Paid Fire Department in their softball battle against the Kingston Police on Sunday, Sept. 8, at 8 p.m. at Dietz Stadium.

Detective John Crespo, manager of the police squad, is expected to counter with Sandy Koufax. Remainder of the Smoke Eaters' lineup: Harry Hornbeck, c.; John Heybrouck, 1b; Jimmy Woods, 2b; Wayne Platte, 3b; Roland Parhamus, ss; Buddy Lowe, if; Bruce Jansen, cf; Bill Hornbeck, rf; Ed Bennett, sf.

Reserves are Russ Kahrs, Frank Dart, John Reinhardt, Gil Combs and Drew Pinkham. "We have defense, speed, hitting power and we can cope with anything the Police Department can throw at us," was Lt. Berardi's modest appraisal of his team's chances.

A preliminary game at 6:30 p.m. matches all star girls teams from Saugerties and Kingston.

Ali Did All the Talking...As Usual

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Muhammad Ali talked and talked. Joe Frazier was all business, and heavyweight champion George Foreman tried to look like Ali as the world's most famous boxers gave up a night of their time for charity.

Dick Sadler, Foreman's manager, brought the fighters here Tuesday night to help his "Project Survival" raise money for drought stricken Central Africa.

Ali stole the show from Foreman and Frazier and from comedian Bob Hope who gave way to Muhammad's verbal jabs.

"I'm the champion of the people," Ali shouted. "He's (Foreman) the champion only on paper. He can't last more than five rounds."

Ali was the first of three heavyweights to spar before 6,000 fans in the Salt Palace.

"After I leave the ring there will be no verbal mentality, no physical beauty, no poetry or no color in this ring," he said. "You've seen enough of what I can do to know Foreman can't stay in the same ring with me."

Hope opened the show recalling his own boxing days. "I used to backpedal so much I was the only fighter with a rearview mirror," Hope quipped. "I had to quit fighting because I ran out of blood donors."

When Hope introduced the former World Champion, Ali at first refused to enter the ring with him. But he finally gave way to the crowd's cries for him.

"How come this place isn't full for me," Ali taunted. "In two weeks I'm fighting the biggest fight in history and you can't even fill this place."

Ali sparred five rounds—three with Larry Holmes and two with Eddie "Bossman" Jones—before leaving the ring to Frazier.

With hardly a word, Frazier, ranked second behind Foreman and Ali, went three rounds with George Johnson. He then thanked the crowd for paying up to $15 a seat to watch performances and then left with as little fanfare as he entered the ring.

Foreman tried his best to show that he too could "float like a butterfly," but looked like a slow motion version of Ali as he went three rounds with fifth ranked heavyweight Henry Clark.

At the opening of the third round, Foreman showed the right that had powered him to the heavyweight title, but then went into his halting shuffle while the crowd shouted for more punches.

Sadler created the idea for "Project Survival" earlier this year, after visiting Zaire, site of the Foreman-Ali title fight Sept. 24.

The project is the spearhead of a long-ranged campaign designed to battle the drought conditions and hunger in the Sahel section of Central Africa.

"Utah tonight is going to provide the impetus to our fellow men all over the world to join in the great humanitarian effort," Sadler said.

The project will give the droughts. Along with the exhibitions to build irrigation and projects to prevent such future two live bouts.

Frank Maloney Faces Real Test in Syracuse Debut

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—When Frank Maloney assumed the job as head football coach at Syracuse last November, he wasted little time spelling out his plans for this fall.

"People probably think I'm very naive thinking Syracuse can go from a 2-9 season to a bowl game in one year," the former Michigan aide said following his introduction to the press.

"But I'm a tremendous positive thinker and I love challenges. I think once we've set a goal and everyone puts his mind to accomplishing it, a bowl game would not be out of sight," Maloney said.

Better he should be an optimist and enjoy a good fight; this season should provide plenty of opportunities to test both traits.

The 33-year-old red-haired Irishman has inherited a team that last season scored only 17 touchdowns in 11 games and gave up 288 points—the worst defensive performance in the school's 64-year football history.

But despite those statistics, cause for some sleepless nights for any coach. Maloney has amended his remarks of 10 months ago only slightly.

"Let's say we have the potential to get to a bowl game," Maloney said. "I don't think we'll be 11-0, 10-1 or 9-2, but we're hoping to surprise some people."

"Our goal is to win enough to get into a bowl game," he says, "and that means a minimum of six but more likely seven or eight games."

The Orangemen open their 11-game season Saturday at home against Oregon state, also 2-9 a year ago.

Offensively, Maloney says Syracuse will score more than last year, "but we don't have the guy who can make the big play."

The offense, or the lack of one, has been one of the primary reasons for the decline of Orange grid fortunes the past few seasons. And Maloney is first to admit his squad lacks over-all speed and depth.

Syracuse will work from the information, stressing the running game and employing the play-action pass.

Jim Donoghue has won the quarterbacking job. The 6-foot-2 junior takes over from Bob Mitch, last season's starting quarterback who was the team's leading passer and rusher with 1,170 yards in total offense.

Maloney moved the 6-foot-4, 200-pound Mitch to safety after the spring game to bolster the pass defense, but he also figures to be Maloney's No. 1 backup quarterback.

Other probable backfield starters include fullback Steve Webster, wingback Mike Bright and tailback Ken Kinsey.

Split end Joe Brennan, the second-leading receiver last year as a freshman, will team with junior wide receiver Lonnie Allgood to give Syracuse a talented receiving corps.

PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car tires for a specified number of miles when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire does not give you this mileage because of:

- defects in material or workmanship,
- normal road hazard failure,
- premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining);

Montgomery Ward will:

1. During the first 10% of guaranteed mileage, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining guaranteed mileage, replace it for a prorated charge based on mileage used.

Nail punctures repaired free during the entire guaranteed mileage.

For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.

Charge after first 10% of guaranteed mileage based on selling price in effect at the time of return or branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.

Passenger tires used on taxicabs, and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in material and workmanship only.

WINTER PASSENGER CAR TIRE GUARANTEE

Montgomery Ward guarantees each of its passenger car winter tires for a specified number of months from the time of purchase, when used on passenger cars or station wagons, except taxis. If your tire becomes unserviceable during this time because of:

- defects in material or workmanship,
- normal road hazard failure,
- premature tread wearout (2/32 inches or less remaining);

Montgomery Ward will:

1. During the first 10% of the guarantee period, replace the tire free.
2. During the remaining portion of the guarantee period, replace it for a prorated charge based on months of ownership.

Nail punctures repaired free during the entire guarantee period.

For guarantee service and adjustments, return tire to any Montgomery Ward branch with the Guarantee Booklet issued at the time of sale.

Charge after first 10% of guarantee period based on selling price in effect at the time of return at branch to which returned, including federal excise tax.

Winter passenger tires used on taxicabs and motor vehicles other than passenger cars are guaranteed on the same basis against defects in material and workmanship only.

Your Astrograph

Thursday, September 5

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Work or service you need performed that requires special expertise should not be farmed out unless you fully trust the craftsman.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In your haste to get things done mistakes are likely. This could upset you and spoil some fun you're looking forward to.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do not gamble on anything that could later reflect poorly on your reputation or status. Follow as conservative a course as possible.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You will be easily dissuaded from what you wish to attain if you listen to suggestions from one who doesn't fully comprehend your purposes.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Poor planning can prove costly at this time. Be sure your every move is thought out in advance, then proceed slowly.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In a situation where you're sharing something with another, it appears each is expecting more from this sharing than is realistic.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be very careful if making an agreement with another. There are certain facts that are being cleverly hidden from your view.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're going to get an urgent request to do something unusual for a friend. Before you get too involved, be sure it's necessary.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) One of your outside interests will expose you to the boring company of two individuals who like to play the big shot role.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't exaggerate about anything of a material nature by pretending you have something you don't. You'll get an embarrassing request for a loan if you do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) One of your friends will try to get you involved in a situation. You'll find it's a trifle too extravagant for your own good if you heed his pitch.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) a yield.

September 5, 1974

Opportunities this year will come thick and fast, but they'll be of a fleeting nature. Common sense and follow-through will be required if they are to produce a yield.

four tricks were two hearts led and lost by South and two further trumps led by the defense. This left West with the last trump and East with three good hearts but there was no way for East to get on lead.

South simply cashed the two high clubs dropping the queen and jack. Then he took his ace and queen of diamonds and continued clubs. West could ruff any time he wished, but would have to give dummy the rest of the tricks.

We don't approve of South's bidding and don't recommend such calls as a steady diet, but it really worked this time. Furthermore, the more normal contract of five clubs could be beaten by three heart leads with West trumping the third lead with his jack to set up a sure trump trick for East.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The dachshund is a breed of dog developed in Germany to pursue badgers into their burrows. The World Almanac notes. The dachshund has a long body with a deep chest, short legs and long ears. The wire-haired dachshund has remarkable stamina and courage and has been used in hunting wild boar and stag deer.

BARBS

By PHIL PASTORET

Plan your work ahead — it keeps the boss busy tearing the schedule apart.

Recall when kids could study without the combined blare of TV, hi-fi and radio?

The boss grumps that some of the gals in the stenographers' pool are in way over their heads.

U.S., East Germany Establish Diplomatic Relations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Another bulwark of the Cold War falls today to the march of East-West détente with the formal establishment of diplomatic relations between the United States and East Germany.

The recognition was scheduled in a brief, matter-of-fact ceremony at the State Department in which Assistant Secretary of State Arthur A. Hartman was to sign for the United States and Herbert Suss for East Germany.

Although not announced formally, State Department officials say former Republican Sen. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky will be nominated as ambassador to the Communist state. Suss, a career diplomat, already has been named as the East German envoy.

By today's action, the United States acknowledged it has given up hope for unifying Germany.

The United States had never recognized the legitimacy of East Germany, officially known as the German Democratic Republic, following its establishment by the Soviet Union in 1949.

But as relations improved generally between Washington and Moscow, more and more Western European countries began accepting the reality of an independent East German state.

With the formal diplomatic link between East Berlin and Washington, all members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization recognize East Germany, except Canada.

The agreement establishing the embassies calls for immediate talks to settle the question of financial claims held by the United States against the East Germans.

These fall into three categories: —Payment for actions of the Nazis, including demands for the indemnification of Jews now settled in the United States, who were deprived of rights or property by the Hitler regime.

—Settlement of municipal bond debts dating from pre-1933. These claims traditionally are arbitrated by a nongovernmental international bond agency.

None of these claims is expected to be a problem, and token settlements are expected. This pattern was followed by the United States in negotiations with other East European nations.

—Compensation for American private and government property nationalized by the East Germans after World War II, including the old U.S. embassy in Berlin.

—Settlement of municipal bond debts dating from pre-1933. These claims traditionally are arbitrated by a nongovernmental international bond agency.

Gerald Ford... A Traveling President

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gerald R. Ford apparently is going to be a traveling President.

He logged more than 130,000 miles during his brief time as vice-president. Now, only three weeks on his new job, he already has scheduled eight out-of-town trips with many more contemplated as the election campaign heats up.

As President, Ford already has made two out-of-town trips — to Chicago to address the Veterans of Foreign Wars and to Columbus, Ohio, to deliver the commencement speech to Ohio State University.

Friday evening he will fly to Philadelphia to speak at a dinner observing the bicentennial of the Continental Congress.

Next Wednesday, he will participate in the World Hall of Fame Golf Tournament at Pinehurst, N.C.

On Sept. 18, he will address the United Nations General Assembly in New York, and on Sept. 23 he will be the principal speaker at the 9th World Energy Conference at Cobo Hall in Detroit.

In October, Ford already is committed to Republican political gatherings in Vermont.

Indiana, Pennsylvania and Kentucky.

"He's never been one to sit around," said J. F. terHorst, White House press secretary. "It's easier now that he has his own plane."

Asked why Ford decided to do so much traveling — reminiscent of Lyndon B. Johnson during the 1964 election campaign — terHorst said "he wants to show he is not Washington-bound, and he likes to get out and meet the people."

The President scheduled a busy day today, with a variety of appointments, including a meeting on campaign reform legislation, another with Spanish-American leaders, his first meeting with Russell B. Train, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, a session with his Domestic Council and the swearing-in of Alan Greenspan as chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors.

Ford delayed until next Tuesday his decision on offering conditional amnesty to draft evaders and military observers.

His spokesman said that Ford still has not made up his mind on the complicated subject and wants to "refine his thinking," particularly on legal questions with Pentagon and Justice Department attorneys.

Ford met with two leaders of veterans' organizations Tuesday and discussed amnesty with them in general terms.

One of leaders, James M. Wagnon, national commander of the American Legion, said the legion supports only a case by case review in the federal and military courts.

Inflation Key Issue in Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Inflation became an issue in Congress today with a key senator vowing to fight President Ford's attempt to defer a pay raise for 3.5 million federal military workers.

Sen. Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., chairman of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, said he would seek a Senate vote overturning Ford's weekend decision to defer the pay raise from Oct. 1 to Jan. 1 — saving the government $700 million.

Meantime, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said tax reform and health insurance bills are all but dead for this year but Congress should stand ready to give Ford whatever economic tools he needs to cope with a situation bearing "all the earmarks of the 1930s."

An economic battle shaped up on the Senate floor today as the Senate returned from its Labor Day recess with hopes of quitting by the middle of next month.

The administration opposed a Senate bill, already through the House, under which 20 per cent of imported oil would have to be carried in U.S. flag vessels — tankers built within the past 20 years in the United States and manned by American crews.

Shipbuilders and maritime unions favor the bill, but the Treasury said it would make foreign oil more costly since American crews are paid two or three times as much as foreign crews.

Mansfield said he opposed Pan American World Airways' request before the Civil Aeronautics Board for a $10 million-a-month subsidy, and suggested Pan American be merged instead with its competitor, Trans World Airlines.

The Senate leader straddled the fence on the pay issue, saying he had not yet read Ford's reasons.

But McGee telephoned his committee staff to prepare a resolution of disapproval.

If either house of Congress approves such a resolution by a simple majority vote, the 5.52 per cent pay raise for 1.3 million white collar workers and 2.2 million military personnel must be granted next month as scheduled.

Frigidaire 30" Electric Range

It delivers a lot of convenience when you're cooking and still more when it's time to clean up.

You don't have to stay home to turn the oven on and off. Just set the Cook-Master control for the times and temperature you want; it does the rest automatically. Keep an eye on what's cooking without opening the oven door thanks to the glass window and oven light. Frigidaire makes oven cleaning easier, too, with a lift-off oven door that puts the back wall and far corners within easy reach. Up above, knobs pull off to give you a clean sweep of the control panel.

Frigidaire 30" Electric Range

Near effortless cleaning everywhere you look with plenty of Frigidaire dependability in the bargain.

Messy oven cleaning is a chore of the past because the Frigidaire Electric-clean Oven can clean itself, its oven racks, and removable drip bowls automatically. Even the control panel is easy to clean. Knobs pull off, leaving just one flat surface to wipe off. A Spill-Saver top keeps most spills and boilovers inside its raised edge where they're easier to clean up. And, a removable full-width storage drawer gives you a clean sweep underneath.
